China Raps Red Bid For Unity Talks

Peking Paper Asks Russia To Discard Yugoslavians First

TOKYO (AP) — Red China rebuffed a Soviet Union overture for peace talks today, demanding that the Kremlin dump Yugoslavia as the price of such a meeting.

"There can be no reversing the verdict repudiating the modern revisionists of Yugoslavia," declared the Peking People's Daily, voice of the Chinese Communist party.

The editorial, broadcast in part by Peking radio, obviously replied to the bid by the Soviet Communist party Sunday for talks by Soviet and Red Chinese authorities as a prelude to any world conference on the Communist rift. It hinted that the Russians seek a meeting between Premier Khrushshev and Mao Tze-tung.

Peking called two weeks ago for an international Communist gathering to stem a disunity trend which, it said, has brought the Red bloc to "the brink of the precipice." But the People's Daily balked at Moscow's suggestion of a preliminary meeting between the Red powers.

The paper insisted there must be no deviation from the theme set by the 1957 and 1960 Moscow meetings of Communist parties which denounced Yugoslav "revisionism" as the chief menace to communism.

Khrushchev has welcomed Tito back into the Kremlin family since then. The two have been Peking's chief antagonists in the ideological battle between Khrushchev's policy of peaceful competition with the capitalist world and Mao's policy that the capitalists will have to be overcome by war.

Man Captured On Roof Of Building Here

Real 'Cops And Robbers' Drama

Real life drama rivaling anything dreamed up by a television script writer was enacted starkly by East Liverpool police and a burglary suspect late Saturday night, when four officers captured and overpowered the 34-year-old man after a struggle on the slippery, snow - covered roof of a business building high above Market St.

Nabbed in the act of allegedly entering the Keys Co. building on Market St. via an elevator shaft, Charles Mercer Jr., 216 W. 2nd St., was pursued, overpowered and handcuffed by Lt. Charles E. (Bill) Tice and Patrolmen Paul Blevins, L. E. Richard and K. H. Montgomery.

Then, with the aid of an assistant fire chief, Mercer was lowered with a rope through a rooftop skylight in the third floor of the building to be taken to street level and then to jail.

At a hearing this morning in Municipal Court, Mercer was held for the Grand Jury under a $2,500 bond by Judge Samuel M. Chertoff on a charge filed by Lt. Tice. He pleaded not guilty.

Police said it all began Saturday at 9:58 p. m. when Patrolman Kenneth H. Mooney, desk officer at headquarters, received a telephone call from Chandler Keys that he could hear the battering sounds of someone attempting to break into the wholesale auto parts concern via the top of the elevator shaft.

The four officers responded — Lt. Rice and Patrolman Blevins in Car No. 1, Officer Richard in Car No. 3 and Officer Montgomery on foot.

Lt. Tice instructed Officer Richard and Officer Blevins to cover a fire escape which leads off E. 4th St. near the Travelers Hotel, giving access to the roof of the Keys Co. Officer Montgomery was stationed at the corner of E. Drury Ln. and Market St. to watch the front and side of the building.

Then Keys and Lt. Tice went into the building and entered the elevator to ascend to the roof and check for the intruder.

The officer and the store official looked upward through the wire mesh ceiling of the elevator and saw a man on a ladder which leads from the top of the elevator shaft into a small building on the roof housing the motors.

Officer Montgomery was ordered into the building and Officer Richard and Blevins were instructed to climb the fire escape from E. 4th St. to intercept the man if he attempted to flee in that direction.

The suspect, meanwhile, was climbing the ladder toward the top of the elevator shaft. Lt. Tice climbed on top of the elevator car and asked Keys to run it to the top of the shaft. As the car reached the ladder, the officer climbed onto the rungs and made his way to the roof top.

As Lt. Tice emerged onto the roof, he saw that the suspect was being placed in custody by Officer Richard and Blevins, who had arrived on the roof top via the fire escape.

There was a struggle on the snow-covered, slippery roof, but the suspect was subdued quickly by the officers. Then he was handcuffed.

Rather than attempt to take the suspect through the maze of wires and motors in the top of the shaft and then down the ladder to the top of the elevator, the officers called the fire department for assistance.

Asst. Chief David Anderson responded with a rope. Mercer was secured and then lowered through a skylight into a third floor room of the building. From that point he was taken to ground level in the elevator. Asst. Chief Anderson, Richard and Lt. Tice held the rope to lower the man into the third floor level.

Mercer gave Lt. Tice a signed statement in which he admitted breaking into the building, but did not disclose what he intended to steal.

The suspect said he ascended the fire escape off E. 4th St. to reach the roof of the building. Then he pried open a trap door to enter the small rooftop building housing the motors for the elevator.

He said he had just started

Flu Sweeps East Coast, Moves West

Health Aides Fear Asian Disease Due In Local Outbreaks

WASHINGTON (AP)—A shock wave of Asian flu — a wintry friend of death—is hitting the Eastern Seaboard and leapfrogging inland as far as Kansas.

U.S. Public Health Service officials can't say for sure, but the odds are it will spread in local outbreaks across the country.

In a sampling of 108 cities, the Public Health Service reports that pneumonia-influenza deaths have been running over the epidemic threshhold for four weeks.

Especially vulnerable are the elderly, the chronically ill and pregnant women.

Asian flu has been confirmed in Maryland, Kansas, Illinois, North Carolina and the District of Columbia.

It is suspected strongly but not yet confirmed in Vermont, Maine, Delaware, Virginia, South Carolina and Georgia.

Confirmation is made by laboratory tests of blood specimens from victims to detect the high level of protective antibodies against the virus, and by spotting the virus in throat swabs.

The Public Health Service warned earlier this year that following the normal cycle Asian flu likely would strike the nation hard this winter. For a while it looked as though the warning was wrong.

Then, in mid-January, the pattern of Asian flu appeared. Now it is expected to stay until mid-March when it generally declines.

Asian influenza is one of the "A" type influenza viruses which seem to strike every two or three years. It was first seen in the winter of 1957-58. There was some forewarning when it was identified in Japan and named. Vaccines were hurriedly made against the virus and distributed widely across the United States.

Rebels Battle Iraqi Reds, Hold Control

New Junta Moves Troops Into Basra To End Resistance

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Iraq's rebel regime fought Communist holdouts in Baghdad and the major port of Basra today but appeared to be in control of the country.

To prove that overthrown Premier Abdel Karim Kassem really is dead, the rebels showed his body on television. Travelers said he was tried in the rubble of his office by a drumhead court Saturday, forced to sit on a sofa and machine-gunned.

Reports to Tehran from frontier towns said armed Communists invaded Basra Prison Sunday and freed about 1,500 Communists and criminals. The government was reported withdrawing forces from the border with Kuwait and moving them to Basra to fight the communists.

In Baghdad, Communists were reported resisting with small arms fire in heavily populated areas. Raiding parties fired on their houses with rifles and 50-caliber machine guns.

Members of the nation's new National Guard, formed under revolt leader Col. Abdel Kerim Mustafa, were reported to have joined Iraqi regular troops fighting Communist holdouts.

Mustafa heads a six-man junta which announced Saturday the appointment of transitional President Abdul Salem Mohammed Aref and a Cabinet but kept supreme powers for itself.

Baghdad radio announced the execution of four army officers—three colonels and a major—as "criminals and traitors." The revolutionary government announced previously the execution of four other officers, including Kassem.

The premier shot it out with the attackers until dawn Saturday, when his ammunition gave out, the Americans said.

$100,000 Blaze Rips Building In Ambridge

AMBRIDGE — Fire of undetermined origin caused over $100,000 damage early today when it swept through a two-story brick building used as a storeroom by three local business firms.

The blaze completely gutted two of the four storerooms in the first floor used by the Penn Grill Restaurant and the Bride and Deb Shop. There was heavy smoke and water damage to the storeroom of Hankins Shoe Store.

The fourth room in the downstairs was vacant. The second floor, also used for storing stock and equipment, also was empty. The building is owned by Notopolus Enterprises of Altoona, firemen reported. They were called to the scene at the corner of 5th and Merchant Sts. at 12:24 a. m.

$3,500 Lisbon Blaze Razes 8-Room House

LISBON — Fire destroyed an eight - room house on the Lisbon - Elkton Rd. east of the American Vitrified Products Co. plant this morning at 1:50, village firemen reported.

The owner, James Cross, placed the loss between $3,500 and $4,000. A power shovel operator, Cross was unable to pinpoint the cause or tell if it was completely covered by insurance.

The former tenants vacated the dwelling last week and Cross said he had not been notified until Saturday. The home was known as the old Ross Perkins home and was built on an embankment along Route 154.

Autos Detour As City Hunts Broken Main

Water crews continued this morning to hunt an elusive leak on St. Clair Ave. which has forced traffic to detour around the block between Orchard Grove and McKinnon Aves. because of icing conditions.

Meanwhile, seven homes on Ray St. remain without water because of another frozen line and the department worked all day Saturday to repair a major break in a 6-inch main at Bradshaw Ave. and Walnut St.

Two homes on Center St. were without water Friday while crews thawed another frozen 6-inch main, Supt. Donald Duke said.

Duke said the leak on St. Clair Ave. still hasn't been pinpointed this morning although crews may be near the area.

The leak may be in a service line rather than a city main, Duke said, but it can't be established until the break has been found.

The break was discovered Friday but because it didn't appear too serious work was delayed until crews could thaw the frozen main on Center St.

However, water from the St. Clair break forced its way under the brick pavement and heaved up a section of the street. Icing forced the city to close the block between Orchard Grove and McKinnon Aves. on Saturday.

The water crew expects to begin work Tuesday on thawing the Ray St. main.

Because of ice, the city has been unable to get its equipment to the frozen line but hopes to begin work tomorrow if the St. Clair break can be repaired and above-freezing temperatures allow the crew to reach Ray St., Duke said.

A spigot has been placed on a fire hydrant so residents of the seven homes can secure water, the superintendent added.

Cloud Urges Early Action For Tax Bills

Leader Asks Ohio Legislative Chiefs To Expedite Study

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—House Speaker Roger Cloud, R - Logan, pressed today for early legislative action on personal property and school district income tax proposals.

Cloud conferred at length with several committee chairmen to urge speedy consideration of pending proposals as General Assembly members returned for their seventh week of work beginning tonight.

The House speaker expressed hope for quick committee action on a proposal to have cabinet members serve at the pleasure of the governor and for a decision next week on a measure to create a state board of regents.

Altogether, five major administration bills are scheduled for committee hearings in a heavy docket for the week.

In addition to the cabinet and regents bills, the administration measures, include proposals to spur industrial development through revenue bond financing, transfer the four-member Liquor Board into a three-member commission and authorize construction of so-called Golden Age Villages for non-psychotic patients moved from state hospitals.

The income tax measure would allow voters in school districts to approve such a levy for school operating purposes.

Moore Given Nod For Top GOP Group

CHARLESTON (AP) — West Virginia Republicans have granted Rep. Arch Moore Jr. of Glen Dale a stronger voice in party affairs.

At a meeting of the State GOP Executive Committee here Saturday, members unanimously chose the 39-year-old four-term member of Congress from the First District to serve on the party's national committee, which must confirm the action.

Moore succeeds the late Walter S. Hallanan of Charleston.

No other names were placed in nomination.

Moore confirmed that the committee's action will be an important factor in his political plans for 1964. He had said publicly several days ago that he was considering a statewide race — for governor or U. S. senator — next year.

May Be Held In Cuba

Sea Hunt Pushed For Lost Tanker

NEW YORK (AP)—The mystery of the disappearance of the sulphur-carrying tanker Marina Sulphur Queen continued to deepen over the weekend.

Did the 524-front ship sink in the severe Atlantic storm that lashed the southeast coast with 40 m.p.h. winds, churning up 14-foot waves?

Or are the tanker and her crew of 39 in Cuba? If so, was she "hijacked" or did she become disabled and drift into Cuban waters?

Six search planes were ordered to scan the southeast Atlantic from Cape Hatteras, N. C., to Fort Pierce, Fla., covering an area roughly 250 miles offshore. The Coast Guard cutter Sweetgum, last reported 200 miles off Jacksonville, Fla., also was ordered to take part.

Sunday, 15 planes searched the area between Fort Pierce and Norfolk, Va., where the Sulphur Queen was scheduled to arrive last Thursday.

A report from one aircraft of a yellowish substance in the ocean about 190 miles east of St. Augustine, Fla., sent a small Navy ship, the U.S.S. Hoist, to the scene. The Hoist reported the yellow substance was floating seaweed rathern than sulphur.

The Coast Guard reported Sunday it is investigating the possibility that the Sulphur Queen is in Cuba. A spokesman said that the probe concerned "the possibility of a hijacking," but then said the ship might have drifted into Cuban waters.

Other Coast Guard sources said the Swiss embassy in Havana, on a request from the U.S. State Department, presumably is trying to check out speculation that the Marine Transport Lines tanker is in Cuba. The United States does not have diplomatic relations with the Fidel Castro government.

The Sulphur Queen left Beaumont, Tex., Feb. 2. Its course through the Gulf of Mexico would not have been too far from Cuban waters.

Although her route would have taken her through regular sea lanes, no other vessel definitely has reported sighting her.

Senator Raps Record

Rep. Powell Faces New Criticism In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Adam Clayton Powell returns to Washington from sunny Puerto Rico he is liable to find the capital can be just as warm—even in winter.

For the Democratic chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee will have to face the wrath of his committee colleagues, the scorn of a senator and the displeasure of the administration.

Powell, 53, who is equally at home in the pulpit of the Negro Baptist church he heads in New York City, the political clubs of Harlem, and the plush night clubs of two continents, has managed to outrage the sensibilities of an impressive number of people in the past.

The soft voice of Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., rising from the Senate floor, has spoken loudest, calling Powell an authority on "adult delinquency," criticizing his trip abroad with two "lady friends" at government expense and questioning the propriety of several government financial transactions favorable to Powell.

His latest troubles began last week. On Monday everything seemed fine. Powell energetically opened an announced two weeks of hearings on President Kenneday's big education bill, fulfilling a promise made to the administration to get right to work on the important measure.

On Tuesday he disappeared.

There is no way of knowing if he had learned Williams was going to take the Senate floor that day. However, Powell's favorite method of dealing with such problems has been to make himself unavailable to the press. At any rate, he flew to his home in Puerto Rico, where a spokesman said Sunday night he was just resting and talking to no one.

It may be that Powell deserted the hearings because he has little sympathy for the administration's decision to wrap 24 major education proposals into one super-bill with a $5.3-billion price tag and dump it in his lap with orders to consider it as one measure.

Rockefeller Attack Seen Party Move

New Yorker Makes Sharper Criticism Of Kennedy Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller appears to be methodically sharpening his disagreements with President Kennedy in anticipation of a possible 1964 presidential contest.

Politicians think the governor also is lining up with what they regard as the majority position of Republicans on major domestic and international issues.

Since his inaugural for a second term Rockefeller has been growing increasingly critical of Kennedy in terms that parallel those used by GOP senators and House members.

The governor sounded a familiar GOP Capitol Hill theme in Chicago over the weekend when he blamed the Democratic administration for "the present disarray within the Atlantic Alliance."

His recital of difficulties with Britain over the Skybolt missile, with Canada over nuclear warheads, with President Charles de Gaulle over French Common Market action and rejection of Polaris missiles sounded remarkably like attacks launched simultaneously by Republicans of widely various viewpoints.

Marathon Talks Fail To End Paper Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—More than 18 hours of newspaper strike negotiations ended this morning without agreement and with mixed feelings on chances of settling the 66-day blackout.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner, acting as mediator, recessed the talks at 8:30 a.m., pending a report from both sides by Tuesday at the latest.

Wagner said substantial differences still exist between the publishers and the striking printers of Local 6 of the AFL-CIO International Typographical Union.

Walter N. Thayer, spokesman for publishers of the papers involved, left City Hall about half an hour before Wagner made his statement. He looked haggard and weary and was visibly disappointed.

He said the publishers would meet later today—"We cannot say what will happen after that."

Man Crashes In Pursuit Of Hit-Run Car

An East Palestine motorist escaped injury when his car crashed into guard rails while chasing a hit-skip motorist Sunday morning near Calcutta in one of six weekend accidents investigated by the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Fred H. Landsberger, 41, of East Palestine R. D. 1 wrecked his car on the Bell School Rd. about two miles from Calcutta while chasing a car bearing Pennsylvania license plates.

Landsberger told officers the car struck his auto at 10:10 a. m. at the intersection of Routes 170 and 430 at Calcutta. He said the other car failed to halt at the intersection and struck him. The car then sped away with Landsberger giving chase.

The hit-skip driver was not caught, officers said. Four of the accidents were blamed on icy roads.

Ralph Scott Musuraca, 17, son of Ralph Musuraca, 2601 St. Clair Ave., suffered a laceration of the right knee in a one-car mishap on St. Clair Ave. Ext. a mile north of the city limits Sunday at 5:15 p. m.

Officers said Musuraca, headed north, lost control on the icy and wet pavement. His car skidded into a pole. He was treated at City Hospital.

A car driven by Isabelle R. Hart, 58, of 710 Aten Ave., Wellsville, skidded on the icy pavement and hit guard rails on the Wellsville-East Liverpool super road Saturday at 4:40 p. m.

A car driven by George A. Whitten, 18, of New Waterford R. D. 1 struck a pole on the Millrock Rd. at Peace Valley Saturday at 5:15 p. m. He skidded on ice, officers said. Whitten suffered a laceration on the tongue and

$3,500 Lisbon Blaze Razes 8-Room House

LISBON — Fire destroyed an eight - room house on the Lisbon - Elkton Rd. east of the American Vitrified Products Co. plant this morning at 1:50, village firemen reported.

The owner, James Cross, placed the loss between $3,500 and $4,000. A power shovel operator, Cross was unable to pinpoint the cause or tell if it was completely covered by insurance.

The former tenants vacated the dwelling last week and Cross said he had not been notified until Saturday. The home was known as the old Ross Perkins home and was built on an embankment along Route 154.

Autos Detour As City Hunts Broken Main

Water crews continued this morning to hunt an elusive leak on St. Clair Ave. which has forced traffic to detour around the block between Orchard Grove and McKinnon Aves. because of icing conditions.

Meanwhile, seven homes on Ray St. remain without water because of another frozen line and the department worked all day Saturday to repair a major break in a 6-inch main at Bradshaw Ave. and Walnut St.

Two homes on Center St. were without water Friday while crews thawed another frozen 6-inch main, Supt. Donald Duke said.

Duke said the leak on St. Clair Ave. still hasn't been pinpointed this morning although crews may be near the area.

The leak may be in a service line rather than a city main, Duke said, but it can't be established until the break has been found.

The break was discovered Friday but because it didn't appear too serious work was delayed until crews could thaw the frozen main on Center St.

However, water from the St. Clair break forced its way under the brick pavement and heaved up a section of the street. Icing forced the city to close the block between Orchard Grove and McKinnon Aves. on Saturday.

The water crew expects to begin work Tuesday on thawing the Ray St. main.

Because of ice, the city has been unable to get its equipment to the frozen line but hopes to begin work tomorrow if the St. Clair break can be repaired and above-freezing temperatures allow the crew to reach Ray St., Duke said.

A spigot has been placed on a fire hydrant so residents of the seven homes can secure water, the superintendent added.

Cloud Urges Early Action For Tax Bills

Leader Asks Ohio Legislative Chiefs To Expedite Study

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—House Speaker Roger Cloud, R - Logan, pressed today for early legislative action on personal property and school district income tax proposals.

Cloud conferred at length with several committee chairmen to urge speedy consideration of pending proposals as General Assembly members returned for their seventh week of work beginning tonight.

The House speaker expressed hope for quick committee action on a proposal to have cabinet members serve at the pleasure of the governor and for a decision next week on a measure to create a state board of regents.

Altogether, five major administration bills are scheduled for committee hearings in a heavy docket for the week.

In addition to the cabinet and regents bills, the administration measures, include proposals to spur industrial development through revenue bond financing, transfer the four-member Liquor Board into a three-member commission and authorize construction of so-called Golden Age Villages for non-psychotic patients moved from state hospitals.

The income tax measure would allow voters in school districts to approve such a levy for school operating purposes.

Moore Given Nod For Top GOP Group

CHARLESTON (AP) — West Virginia Republicans have granted Rep. Arch Moore Jr. of Glen Dale a stronger voice in party affairs.

At a meeting of the State GOP Executive Committee here Saturday, members unanimously chose the 39-year-old four-term member of Congress from the First District to serve on the party's national committee, which must confirm the action.

Moore succeeds the late Walter S. Hallanan of Charleston.

No other names were placed in nomination.

Moore confirmed that the committee's action will be an important factor in his political plans for 1964. He had said publicly several days ago that he was considering a statewide race — for governor or U. S. senator — next year.

May Be Held In Cuba

Sea Hunt Pushed For Lost Tanker

NEW YORK (AP)—The mystery of the disappearance of the sulphur-carrying tanker Marina Sulphur Queen continued to deepen over the weekend.

Did the 524-front ship sink in the severe Atlantic storm that lashed the southeast coast with 40 m.p.h. winds, churning up 14-foot waves?

Or are the tanker and her crew of 39 in Cuba? If so, was she "hijacked" or did she become disabled and drift into Cuban waters?

Six search planes were ordered to scan the southeast Atlantic from Cape Hatteras, N. C., to Fort Pierce, Fla., covering an area roughly 250 miles offshore. The Coast Guard cutter Sweetgum, last reported 200 miles off Jacksonville, Fla., also was ordered to take part.

Sunday, 15 planes searched the area between Fort Pierce and Norfolk, Va., where the Sulphur Queen was scheduled to arrive last Thursday.

A report from one aircraft of a yellowish substance in the ocean about 190 miles east of St. Augustine, Fla., sent a small Navy ship, the U.S.S. Hoist, to the scene. The Hoist reported the yellow substance was floating seaweed rather than sulphur.

The Coast Guard reported Sunday it is investigating the possibility that the Sulphur Queen is in Cuba. A spokesman said that the probe concerned "the possibility of a hijacking," but then said the ship might have drifted into Cuban waters.

Other Coast Guard sources said the Swiss embassy in Havana, on a request from the U.S. State Department, presumably is trying to check out speculation that the Marine Transport Lines tanker is in Cuba. The United States does not have diplomatic relations with the Fidel Castro government.

The Sulphur Queen left Beaumont, Tex., Feb. 2. Its course through the Gulf of Mexico would not have been too far from Cuban waters.

Although her route would have taken her through regular sea lanes, no other vessel definitely has reported sighting her.

Senator Raps Record

Rep. Powell Faces New Criticism In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Adam Clayton Powell returns to Washington from sunny Puerto Rico he is liable to find the capital can be just as warm—even in winter.

For the Democratic chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee will have to face the wrath of his committee colleagues, the scorn of a senator and the displeasure of the administration.

Powell, 53, who is equally at home in the pulpit of the Negro Baptist church he heads in New York City, the political clubs of Harlem, and the plush night clubs of two continents, has managed to outrage the sensibilities of an impressive number of people in the past.

The soft voice of Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., rising from the Senate floor, has spoken loudest, calling Powell an authority on "adult delinquency," criticizing his trip abroad with two "lady friends" at government expense and questioning the propriety of several government financial transactions favorable to Powell.

His latest troubles began last week. On Monday everything seemed fine. Powell energetically opened an announced two weeks of hearings on President Kennedy's big education bill, fulfilling a promise made to the administration to get right to work on the important measure.

On Tuesday he disappeared.

There is no way of knowing if he had learned Williams was going to take the Senate floor that day. However, Powell's favorite method of dealing with such problems has been to make himself unavailable to the press. At any rate, he flew to his home in Puerto Rico, where a spokesman said Sunday night he was just resting and talking to no one.

It may be that Powell deserted the hearings because he has little sympathy for the administration's decision to wrap 24 major education proposals into one super-bill with a $5.3-billion price tag and dump it in his lap with orders to consider it as one measure.

Rockefeller Attack Seen Party Move

New Yorker Makes Sharper Criticism Of Kennedy Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller appears to be methodically sharpening his disagreements with President Kennedy in anticipation of a possible 1964 presidential contest.

Politicians think the governor also is lining up with what they regard as the majority position of Republicans on major domestic and international issues.

Since his inaugural for a second term Rockefeller has been growing increasingly critical of Kennedy in terms that parallel those used by GOP senators and House members.

The governor sounded a familiar GOP Capitol Hill theme in Chicago over the weekend when he blamed the Democratic administration for "the present disarray within the Atlantic Alliance."

His recital of difficulties with Britain over the Skybolt missile, with Canada over nuclear warheads, with President Charles de Gaulle over French Common Market action and rejection of Polaris missiles sounded remarkably like attacks launched simultaneously by Republicans of widely various viewpoints.

Marathon Talks Fail To End Paper Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—More than 18 hours of newspaper strike negotiations ended this morning without agreement and with mixed feelings on chances of settling the 66-day blackout.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner, acting as mediator, recessed the talks at 8:30 a.m., pending a report from both sides by Tuesday at the latest.

Wagner said substantial differences still exist between the publishers and the striking printers of Local 6 of the AFL-CIO International Typographical Union.

Walter N. Thayer, spokesman for publishers of the papers involved, left City Hall about half an hour before Wagner made his statement. He looked haggard and weary and was visibly disappointed.

He said the publishers would meet later today—"We cannot say what will happen after that."

Man Crashes In Pursuit Of Hit-Run Car

An East Palestine motorist escaped injury when his car crashed into guard rails while chasing a hit-skip motorist Sunday morning near Calcutta in one of six weekend accidents investigated by the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Fred H. Landsberger, 41, of East Palestine R. D. 1 wrecked his car on the Bell School Rd. about two miles from Calcutta while chasing a car bearing Pennsylvania license plates.

Landsberger told officers the car struck his auto at 10:10 a. m. at the intersection of Routes 170 and 430 at Calcutta. He said the other car failed to halt at the intersection and struck him. The car then sped away with Landsberger giving chase.

The hit-skip driver was not caught, officers said. Four of the accidents were blamed on icy roads.

Ralph Scott Musuraca, 17, son of Ralph Musuraca, 2601 St. Clair Ave., suffered a laceration of the right knee in a one-car mishap on St. Clair Ave. Ext. a mile north of the city limits Sunday at 5:15 p. m.

Officers said Musuraca, headed north, lost control on the icy and wet pavement. His car skidded into a pole. He was treated at City Hospital.

A car driven by Isabelle R. Hart, 58, of 710 Aten Ave., Wellsville, skidded on the icy pavement and hit guard rails on the Wellsville-East Liverpool super road Saturday at 4:40 p. m.

A car driven by George A. Whitten, 18, of New Waterford R. D. 1 struck a pole on the Millrock Rd. at Peace Valley Saturday at 5:15 p. m. He skidded on ice, officers said. Whitten suffered a laceration on the tongue and

Ohio Soldier Killed In Indiana Car Crash

MARTINSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—An Ohio soldier is dead as a result of an auto accident near here in which six other persons were injured.

Police said the victim, Willie J. Turman of Columbus, Ohio, was driving one of two cars involved in the crash which occurred on a snow-slick curve Sunday. Turman was stationed at Ft. Campbell, Ky.

Auto's Plunge Off 'Hill Rd.' Hurts Women

Two Midland women escaped with minor injuries Saturday afternoon when their auto skidded off the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd.," plunged down a 25-foot embankment and came to rest against the side of a home, police said.

Both Mary Granito, 36, of 345 Midland Ave., the driver, and Angeline Colista, 34, of the same address, a passenger, complained of chest pains after the mishap, but declined medical attention, officers said.

The auto struck the side of a frame home at 865 State St. occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Basil Adkins and their five children, but none of the occupants of the house was injured. The family said the auto broke a hole in the siding of the house adjoining the kitchen.

Mrs. Adkins and the children were at home at the time, but no one was in the kitchen, the family said. State St. is at the bottom of the grade overlooked by the "Hill Rd."

The Granito woman was operating a 1961 car registered in the name of her passenger when it plunged off the east end of the "Hill Rd." about 2:25 p. m., officers said.

The driver said she was headed downgrade toward East End about 20 miles an hour when the car skidded out of control, went over the bankment and struck the house. The left front of the auto was damaged, police said.

A skid was blamed for a collision at W. 5th and Jackson Sts. Sunday at 1:21 a. m. that damaged two autos.

A 1955 two-door operated by Charles Lee, 18, of 1546 Pennsylvania Ave. struck a parked 1960 convertible owned by Sanders Firestone of Manor Ln., police said.

Lee told police he applied his brakes at the traffic light on Jackson St. and the auto skidded through the intersection and hit Firestone's car. The crash damaged the left front fender, bumper and grill of Lee's auto and the right side of Firestone's, police said.

A skid was blamed for another mishap Saturday at 2:13 p. m. on Pennsylvania Ave. at Blakely St. that damaged a 1955 two-door sedan driven by Guido Beltrandli, 64, of 815 Virginia Ave., Midland, and a 1956 two-door sedan operated by Elmer C. English, 53, of 952 Ambrose Ave., officers said.

Beltrandli told police he was descending the Pennsylvania Ave. grade when his car skidded on ice, causing the rear to cross the center line. English's oncoming auto then hit the Midland man's car and knocked it against a curb, he said.

The crash damaged the left rear fender and left front wheel of the Midland auto and the left front bumper, fender and grill of the English auto, police said.

Minor damage resulted in a mishap in the parking lot of the Trinity United Presbyterian Church on Maine Blvd. Sunday at 9:50 a. m., police said.

It involved a 1958 sedan driven by Kenneth A. Pershon, 39, of 535 Campground Rd. and a 1957 sedan operated by Gale J. Davis, 51, of 412 Vine St., officers said.

AGS Gem-Wise Jewelry fashions, facts, fictions

By J. A. LOCKE, JR. Member American Gem Society

Frequently, feminine friends and customers ask my advice on the best way to start a fashion "wardrobe" of the really fine jewelry. To be sure, budget considerations always play an important part in the extensiveness of this project. However, with a little planning, it can become a reality for the majority of women.

After the acquisition of the traditional engagement diamond and wedding band, the next jewelry purchase that I recommend is a good strand or two of natural or cultured pearls. Often, this is the gift given to a bride by her family. Not only are pearls versatile, but they are considered by many to be the most flattering gem that a woman can wear. Moreover, they look right with everything from a simple sweater to an elaborate ball gown.

Today, the strands most often seen are what we jewelers term "cultured" pearls. Like the rare and valuable natural pearls, cultured gems are products of the living oyster. The basic difference is that in the case of the cultured pearl, a mother-of-pearl bead is inserted into the oyster by a delicate surgical operation. It takes approximately three years for each pearl to form in the seeded oysters, which are kept in wire cages suspended in the water from floating rafts.

Factors governing price are depth of the nacre coating on the pearl core, plus its orient and lustre. Color will vary from white to various shades of cream. A rose orient is considered the finest quality. Except for the popular baroque pearls, each gem should be as spherical and free from surface blemishes as possible.

Fine pearls may be acquired at any age, and later, various accessory pieces such as a jeweled diamond clasp or pendant, or a lovely pearl bracelet may be added. Feel free to stop in and discuss the growth of your jewel wardrobe with us soon.

News Is A Two-Edged Sword

We haven't seen anything about Pierre Salinger recently, but assume he is still chewing a cigar and keeping his head in the midst of the busiest news spots on earth—the White House.

His problems have been compounded by circumstance that he, as a newsman, must deplore as much as other newsmen deplore it. There's nothing pleasant about watching and hearing President Kennedy cope with the grim consequences of a tragic misconception about official news.

Whether the misconception was shared by the President at the outset, or is being shared by him now is uncertain. It probably isn't. But he has a share in its consequences. When he says he is annoyed by "rumor and hearsay" about the Soviet Union's strength in Cuba, he is acknowledging his share.

IT BEGAN — this misconception that Mr. Kennedy must share — with a statement last Oct. 30 by an assistant secretary of defense, Arthur Sylvester.

The statement said "management of news was part of the arsenal of weaponry" the Kennedy administration had available for dealing with crises. Mr. Sylvester explained how the "content and timing" of government-generated news could be used "in the application of international pressures."

He was talking about management of news about Cuba.

The Sylvester credo shocked everybody who understood what it meant. The Kennedy administration believed in manipulating the news — in telling Americans only what it wanted them to know, nothing else.

This shattered confidence in its integrity. It set up the sorry situation in which "rumor and hearsay" can command as much attention as the Kennedy administration's official versions. How can we tell the difference?

THIS IS tragic. President Kennedy has tried to undo the damage, but once it had been asserted that news is a weapon how could anyone ever keep from wondering if the official version had been doctored?

It's a weapon, all right — a two-edged sword that can inflict deadly damage on its wielder.

Save Time If Not Money

We are only casually interested in whether or not a later primary election in Ohio would save money for political candidates.

Our observation is that they spend all the money they can lay their hands on, or all the money they think they need to spend to sew up a sure thing, whichever takes precedence in their minds. Whether the primary continues to be held in May or is moved back in the calendar to, say, August, where it once was, is of no crashing importance one way or the other.

It would be nice in some respects if it could be moved back even later than August. The respects we have in mind are concerned not with money-saving by candidates but with time-saving for the rest of us.

THE WAY IT works, everybody who takes his political responsibilities seriously must look over a large field of candidates before the primary in May, pick out the likely ones from the culls and hope to get enough good people nominated on the party tickets to give representative democracy a fighting chance to survive in November.

Then from May to the beginning of the stretch-run that begins soon after Labor Day and chugs along to Election Day in November it is necessary to keep track of the candidates and bear down for those that deserve support. The thing stretches out until some of the good Joes and Josephines who keep the two-party system going wonder whether party politics has turned into a career instead of an avocation.

A SHORTER haul between the primary and the election might not save money for candidates, but it would save time for people who keep free elections going. On that basis alone it's worth careful consideration.

These people need to be guarded and cherished. They shouldn't be imposed on any longer than absolutely necessary.

It's Snow Business, Mister

Accounts of the mishaps and miseries of this snow-plagued and frost-bitten winter have been worn threadbare in the telling and retelling.

But almost nothing has been said about the silver lining.

The lining will show up later in the reports of fuel consumption, turnover of snow-shovel stocks, gross sales of rock salt and the booming trade in snow tires and tire chains.

Millions of automobiles are keyed up for cold-weather starting with new batteries that never would have been purchased if the winter hadn't been severe.

Millions of pairs of overshoes and galoshes, heavy gloves and ear warmers have been moved into the hands of buyers as the direct consequence of a severe winter.

It is no happenstance that proprietary medicines for stifling sneezing and coughing have boomed. Stretch pants, snuggies, long-handled drawers, sweaters, scarves and special headgear have been in a seller's market.

Sleds, skates, skis and toboggans have been in demand. If a master list of everything needed for coping with severely cold weather were compiled, it would contain hundreds of items—and every one would have been readily saleable this winter.

The items range from heaters to wool socks, from aspirin to windshield wipers, from auto radiator antifreeze to the potable kind that goes down the hatch to ward off frost-bite.

None of it balances the corresponding losses, but in the mass it offsets the gross impact of the losses. For every worker who lost time due to severe weather, a fraction of the same time was gained somewhere by workers towing stalled cars, removing snow; by doctors treating frost-bite; by laboratory technicians turning out antibiotics to cope with illness.

Snow business is not to be sneezed at, coughed at, or given a cold shoulder. There's a silver lining even in the worst winter so far of the 20th century.

Would That Be War?

By Truman Twill

A proposal to legalize an annual slaughter of mourning doves has taken many of us by surprise — most of us, I should guess.

We didn't know the hunters were that hungry. We can understand why they want to blow pheasants to smithereens. A pheasant can make a meal. It is as big as a small chicken.

But a mourning dove is scarcely a morsel. Unlike pheasants, mourning doves would make no sport in the killing. They are gentle creatures, first cousins to pigeons, without the pigeons' bad reputation.

They do not congregate in cities. They do not roost on buildings. Though numerous enough to be known to everybody who lives in the country, they usually are seen only in pairs. They mate for life and spend all their time together.

Their name describes their song, a mourning sob, similar to the cooing of pigeons. They favor high places, such as telephone wires, though they frequently are seen on gravel roads in the country, dusting themselves.

At a casual glance they can be mistaken for pigeons, but they are trimmer and solid gray in color. Why anyone would want to shoot birds so gentle in nature and unobtrusive in behavior is a question that would have to be answered by avid hunters.

Why does anyone want to shoot anything that harms no one, other than for food?

Why does anyone want to shoot a pheasant that asks for nothing but the privilege of scratching out a precarious living in a countryside made more beautiful by the beauty of its feathers?

Why does anyone want to shoot a quail?

Hunters say it is because of the sport afforded by the violent death of these helpless creatures. They find some connection between loving the outdoors where the killing is inflicted in a way that gives the quarry no chance and proving how much they love the outdoors by causing the death of creatures that live there.

Some of us are as puzzled by this as we are by the reasoning of people who kill other people for sport. We concede only the right to kill for food and survival. Killing for sport leaves us cold.

We are impressed by the fact that, historically, the urge to kill for sport, so-called, never has been checked short of depletion of the game to be killed, whereupon a program of restocking is instituted to create a new supply. There is no point of satiety in killing for sport.

But mourning doves! Are they threatening security? Are men that hard up for food?

Are mourning doves becoming a general pest, like the rabbits that infest some parts of the country, thanks in large part to their patron-killers who want them around in such numbers that no hunter will be unable to find one to knock sprawling when another hunting season opens?

We like the mourning doves in our countryside. And also the robins, cardinals, meadow larks, brown thrashers, orioles, bluejays and woodpeckers. We like the pheasant and quail and the wild duck that will be coming this way again soon.

Is it necessary to kill everything? Couldn't the hunters just grimly knock over each other, or would that necessitate thinking up a reason to wage ideological warfare, instead of just legalizing an open season?

When You Look At The Gift Horse

England Goes Through Dark Days

By Patrick O'Donovan

LEEDS, ENGLAND

It would be hard to exaggerate the effects of the recent icy weather upon Britain. It has been a traumatic experience that young men will remember when they are old. Other nations accept far fiercer blasts as routine, but this was like the descent of barbarians upon an open, pleasure city, defenseless, unprepared and bewildered.

To exaggerate and add an extra dash of bitterness to its results, there were unofficial strikes in the power industries that seemed, at the time, of an irresponsible selfishness that denied every national myth. The country seemed to break down and a minority to be looting the wreckage. It's an interpretation that will not bear close examination, but altogether it left a haunting sense of inadequacy.

Indeed, this is a bad time for Britain, and there seems no special good reason why this should be so.

IT HAS rammed home the reality of the nation's changed station in the world, of the brutal limitations on her power and potential.

Almost everyone is aware at last of what was first shown at Suez. And this sense of inadequacy is being heightened and illuminated and shaped by a sudden weedy flowering of cynicism and satire in those places where a healthy nation would look for hope and excitement.

All that is old and established is bad to this well-placed minority. All these, to the sons and daughters of the Establishment and to the provincial intellectuals who are getting a fair share of cake for the first time, are seen as either pathetic or funny.

The monarchy, the established church, the Catholic minority, the peerage, Parliament, the old universities, the law, the press, the political parties and, of course, all politicians are all bundled up to be mocked. It is a wholly destructive criticism, too blanket-like to be effective. It must in the end produce its own reaction. If it does not, then Britain is vilely placed. It is not yet safe publicly to oppose it. No State could survive significantly in such an atmosphere of total self-disbelief.

The list of setbacks within the last few months provides a rich bed for cynicism. Like the weather turned against us, is wintry and harsh, and we have found no defense against it.

There was the Kennedy-Macmillan conference at Nassau, which most Britons interpreted as a brutal cutting down to size and an expression of the realities of power as clear and cold as the dialogue between Kennedy and Khrushchev over the unconsulted person of Fidel Castro.

There is the fact that every independent attempt at defense planning and weapon design seems to end rejected and barrenly costly.

British policy in the Congo, over the Katanga secession, only stream that flowes against Whitehall.

President de Gaulle has administered a French humiliation upon Britain not experienced since the days when Charles II took bribes from Louis XIV.

British negotiations with the Common Market seem to have started a disintegration within the commonwealth and to have produced nothing else.

THERE HAS been the belated discovery that the North of England is in the grip of a local depression of the sort that raises a shuddering memory in the middle-aged and no one has yet a clear solution for it.

And to crown all this, there is the widespread, indefinable but very real boredom with the present government. Boredom, more than scandals or clear failure, is a potent cause of the fall of governments in Britain. And at just this time, the one acceptable leader on the Left, Hugh Gaitskell, has died leaving no conceivable successor.

But all these could be only temporary setbacks. None of these near disasters is irremediable. In a city like Leeds the latent is ready to be called out.

It is a great city, built upon plain men's skill of almost every human sort. It is massive, decent, beautiful only to the affectionate eye.

It is streaked with honest soot and it is littered with the plain touch of a 19th-century industrial greatness.

It is blossoming out into a great new university which has inherited no inferiority feeling towards Oxford and Cambridge. It is all there, perhaps closer to the surface, than in London and the South.

And it would take only a few gold men in Westminster, who were prepared to come to terms with Britain's real status, to negotiate on a basis of reality, and again to plan at home for the sort of country that men dream of during war, for it all to be set massively in motion again.

Today And The 1930's

By Philip Toynbee

LONDON

Authoritarian governments in Europe; heavy unemployment at home; satirical humor purveyed in small cabaret clubs; a growing sense of division and incomprehension between generations . . .this is a true enough picture of the early middle-60s, so far as it goes, and it may, perhaps, suggest that the present age is beginning to be reminiscent of the 1930s.

That comparison has been made, and that the parallel has been closely drawn. Yet it is an utterly misleading comparison which will collapse at the very first prod beneath the appearance of things.

ON THE DAY Gen. De Gaulle returned to power I was talking to a group of left-wing students in London. The fiercer and more extreme members of the audience insisted that a true historical parallel could be drawn with the landing of Franco on Spanish soil in June, 1936.

This is an inane comparison, but is attributable to the overwhelming impulse to simplify the complexities of a situation by forcing it into a contrived category of historical situations. But the more closely we examine any moment of history the less it comes to resemble any other moment.

1. Authoritarian governments in Europe: The worst that can be said of the Adenauer regime is that it is a democracy in which too much deference has been paid to a stubborn old man who refuses to abdicate from the power which democracy allows him.

As for De Gaulle, he is neither Franco nor Napoleon nor Louis XIV, but an arrogant, egotistical man whose principal achievement up till now has not been an act of conquest or aggression but the relinquishment of Algeria to the Algerians. Franco remains from the '30s, the lone and severely moth-eaten dictator of Western Europe.

2. Heavy unemployment at home: Even now the figure is less than one-third of the worst figure of the '30s, and the concern of the public is at least as great as it was then.

3. Satirical cabarets? Well, it's true that these were a feature of pre-Nazi Berlin but they were a feature of Paris all through the '40s and '50s. In any case, this seems a tenuous phenomenon on which to draw a parallel.

4. The age-war? This is always with us, in a sense, though I believe that it was fought more fiercely between 1914 and 1930 than at most other periods.

The real division was not between those who were growing up in and '30s and their parents but between the war and post-war generations and those who were fixed forever in the reign of Queen Victoria.

A National Inspiration

Spiritual Session Underscores Brotherhood Of Man

They prayed together—men of all faiths and all parties, men of our government and other governments. The chief justice of the United States prayed along with the President and vice president, members of the Cabinet and members of the Senate and House.

David Lawrence

Maybe they didn't utter an "official" prayer in the sense in which the term has been used by the Supreme Court in its recent case banning certain prayers in public schools but it was a prayer by public men asking the help of God in these troublous times and reasserting man's faith in the ever-present God who inspires the minds and hearts of human beings everywhere.

It was an impressive assembly of men and women convened by an organization known as the International Christian Leadership, which has for many years mobilized breakfast groups throughout the country. Designated now as "The Presidential Prayer Breakfast," it has become an annual event.

This time it was televised by NBC, and there were, coincidentally, many similar breakfast meetings held by the governors of 40 states and by the mayors of several cities.

THE LANGUAGE of those who spoke was that of the Christian gospel, but the doctrine of belief in a supreme being is embodied in the tenets of the many faiths represented by the 1,000 or more persons in the meeting room.

Whether it was the Catholic faith of President Kennedy or the Jewish faith of Associate Justice Arthur Goldberg of the Supreme Court or the Protestant faith of Sen. Frank Carlson of Kansas, who presided, or the Moslem faith of the diplomatic representatives from some of the Asian countries or the religions of the new African nations whose ambassadors were there, too, the assembly was the nearest thing to a universal brotherhood that could be gathered together in our times.

Representatives from the parliaments of Great Britain, France, Sweden, West Germany and Canada were guests, as well as the ambassador from Liberia, who is chairman of the Afro-Asian committee of the United Nations.

As the President sat there, listening intently to the evangelist, Billy Graham, and Vice President Lyndon Johnson before reading his own message, it was apparent that the chief executive, under strain and tension nowadays, welcomed the chance to relax a few moments in the atmosphere of peace and conciliation reflected in the assembly.

FOR PRAYER is not confined to any sect as a mode of articulating inner feeling. It is recognized everywhere as a natural human effort to express dedication to a force above one's self.

Rarely, except in the churches, is there occasion for a laymen's meeting like this devoted solely to the idea of prayer. Here was a means of publicizing the significance of prayer and of giving the testimony of men and women of all faiths to its efficacy in everyday life.

"These breakfasts," said the President, "are dedicated to prayer and all of us believe in and need prayer. . . .

"We cannot depend solely on our material wealth, on our military might or on our intellectual skill or physical courage to see us safely through the seas that we must sail in the months and years to come. Along with all of these we need faith."

When Mr. Kennedy later addressed a separate breakfast meeting of the women attending the assembly, he said:

"I think these breakfasts serve a most useful cause in uniting us all on an occasion when we look not to ourselves but to above for assistance."

Evangelist Billy Graham, in his talk, said that the United States faces crises of such gravity that they might make the recent Cuban affair pale into insignificance. Such crises, he added, will test "the moral and spiritual toughness of this nation as it has not been tested since the Civil War."

When Vice President Johnson spoke, he emphasized that, while church and state are separate in America, there is a union of thought and inspiration under God.

HE MADE reference to Gen. Washington's order to his troops at Valley Forge to give "the warmest returns of gratitude and piety to the supreme author."

Mr. Johnson then said:

"It is in that spirit that we meet here this morning as members of Congress, the judiciary and the executive branches of the government of the United States. Our Constitution separates church and state. We know that separation is a source of our system's strength but the conscience of our nation does not call for separation between men of state and faith in a supreme being."

Altogether, this presidential prayer breakfast was one of the most impressive of those held annually for the last eleven years. It's heartening to see Republicans and Democrats, representatives of foreign nations as well as our own — worshippers in every faith — sitting down together and, through the medium of voluntary prayer, seeking divine guidance in an era of trouble and anxiety involving the fate of all mankind.

News Is A Two-Edged Sword

We haven't seen anything about Pierre Salinger recently, but assume he is still chewing a cigar and keeping his head in the midst of the busiest news spots on earth—the White House.

His problems have been compounded by circumstance that he, as a newsman, must deplore as much as other newsmen deplore it. There's nothing pleasant about watching and hearing President Kennedy cope with the grim consequences of a tragic misconception about official news.

Whether the misconception was shared by the President at the outset, or is being shared by him now is uncertain. It probably isn't. But he has a share in its consequences. When he says he is annoyed by "rumor and hearsay" about the Soviet Union's strength in Cuba, he is acknowledging his share.

IT BEGAN — this misconception that Mr. Kennedy must share — with a statement last Oct. 30 by an assistant secretary of defense, Arthur Sylvester.

The statement said "management of news was part of the arsenal of weaponry" the Kennedy administration had available for dealing with crises. Mr. Sylvester explained how the "content and timing" of government-generated news could be used "in the application of international pressures."

He was talking about management of news about Cuba.

The Sylvester credo shocked everybody who understood what it meant. The Kennedy administration believed in manipulating the news — in telling Americans only what it wanted them to know, nothing else.

This shattered confidence in its integrity. It set up the sorry situation in which "rumor and hearsay" can command as much attention as the Kennedy administration's official versions. How can we tell the difference?

THIS IS tragic. President Kennedy has tried to undo the damage, but once it had been asserted that news is a weapon how could anyone ever keep from wondering if the official version had been doctored?

It's a weapon, all right — a two-edged sword that can inflict deadly damage on its wielder.

Save Time If Not Money

We are only casually interested in whether or not a later primary election in Ohio would save money for political candidates.

Our observation is that they spend all the money they can lay their hands on, or all the money they think they need to spend to sew up a sure thing, whichever takes precedence in their minds. Whether the primary continues to be held in May or is moved back in the calendar to, say, August, where it once was, is of no crashing importance one way or the other.

It would be nice in some respects if it could be moved back even later than August. The respects we have in mind are concerned not with money-saving by candidates but with time-saving for the rest of us.

THE WAY IT works, everybody who takes his political responsibilities seriously must look over a large field of candidates before the primary in May, pick out the likely ones from the culls and hope to get enough good people nominated on the party tickets to give representative democracy a fighting chance to survive in November.

Then from May to the beginning of the stretch-run that begins soon after Labor Day and chugs along to Election Day in November it is necessary to keep track of the candidates and bear down for those that deserve support. The thing stretches out until some of the good Joes and Josephines who keep the two-party system going wonder whether party politics has turned into a career instead of an avocation.

A SHORTER haul between the primary and the election might not save money for candidates, but it would save time for people who keep free elections going. On that basis alone it's worth careful consideration.

These people need to be guarded and cherished. They shouldn't be imposed on any longer than absolutely necessary.

It's Snow Business, Mister

Accounts of the mishaps and miseries of this snow-plagued and frost-bitten winter have been worn threadbare in the telling and retelling.

1. Authoritarian governments in Europe: The worst that can be said of the Adenauer regime is that it is a democracy in which too much deference has been paid to a stubborn old man who refuses to abdicate from the power which democracy allows him.

As for De Gaulle, he is neither Franco nor Napoleon nor Louis XIV, but an arrogant, egotistical man whose principal achievement up till now has not been an act of conquest or aggression but the relinquishment of Algeria to the Algerians. Franco remains from the '30s, the lone and severely moth-eaten dictator of Western Europe.

2. Heavy unemployment at home: Even now the figure is less than one-third of the worst figure of the '30s, and the concern of the public is at least as great as it was then.

3. Satirical cabarets? Well, it's true that these were a feature of pre-Nazi Berlin but they were a feature of Paris all through the '40s and '50s. In any case, this seems a tenuous phenomenon on which to draw a parallel.

4. The age-war? This is always with us, in a sense, though I believe that it was fought more fiercely between 1914 and 1930 than at most other periods.

The real division was not between those who were growing up in and '30s and their parents but between the war and post-war generations and those who were fixed forever in the reign of Queen Victoria.

A National Inspiration

Spiritual Session Underscores Brotherhood Of Man

They prayed together—men of all faiths and all parties, men of our government and other governments. The chief justice of the United States prayed along with the President and vice president, members of the Cabinet and members of the Senate and House.

David Lawrence

Maybe they didn't utter an "official" prayer in the sense in which the term has been used by the Supreme Court in its recent case banning certain prayers in public schools but it was a prayer by public men asking the help of God in these troublous times and reasserting man's faith in the ever-present God who inspires the minds and hearts of human beings everywhere.

It was an impressive assembly of men and women convened by an organization known as the International Christian Leadership, which has for many years mobilized breakfast groups throughout the country. Designated now as "The Presidential Prayer Breakfast," it has become an annual event.

This time it was televised by NBC, and there were, coincidentally, many similar breakfast meetings held by the governors of 40 states and by the mayors of several cities.

THE LANGUAGE of those who spoke was that of the Christian gospel, but the doctrine of belief in a supreme being is embodied in the tenets of the many faiths represented by the 1,000 or more persons in the meeting room.

Whether it was the Catholic faith of President Kennedy or the Jewish faith of Associate Justice Arthur Goldberg of the Supreme Court or the Protestant faith of Sen. Frank Carlson of Kansas, who presided, or the Moslem faith of the diplomatic representatives from some of the Asian countries or the religions of the new African nations whose ambassadors were there, too, the assembly was the nearest thing to a universal brotherhood that could be gathered together in our times.

Representatives from the parliaments of Great Britain, France, Sweden, West Germany and Canada were guests, as well as the ambassador from Liberia, who is chairman of the Afro-Asian committee of the United Nations.

As the President sat there, listening intently to the evangelist, Billy Graham, and Vice President Lyndon Johnson before reading his own message, it was apparent that the chief executive, under strain and tension nowadays, welcomed the chance to relax a few moments in the atmosphere of peace and conciliation reflected in the assembly.

FOR PRAYER is not confined to any sect as a mode of articulating inner feeling. It is recognized everywhere as a natural human effort to express dedication to a force above one's self.

Rarely, except in the churches, is there occasion for a laymen's meeting like this devoted solely to the idea of prayer. Here was a means of publicizing the significance of prayer and of giving the testimony of men and women of all faiths to its efficacy in everyday life.

"These breakfasts," said the President, "are dedicated to prayer and all of us believe in and need prayer. . . .

"We cannot depend solely on our material wealth, on our military might or on our intellectual skill or physical courage to see us safely through the seas that we must sail in the months and years to come. Along with all of these we need faith."

When Mr. Kennedy later addressed a separate breakfast meeting of the women attending the assembly, he said:

"I think these breakfasts serve a most useful cause in uniting us all on an occasion when we look not to ourselves but to above for assistance."

Evangelist Billy Graham, in his talk, said that the United States faces crises of such gravity that they might make the recent Cuban affair pale into insignificance. Such crises, he added, will test "the moral and spiritual toughness of this nation as it has not been tested since the Civil War."

When Vice President Johnson spoke, he emphasized that, while church and state are separate in America, there is a union of thought and inspiration under God.

HE MADE reference to Gen. Washington's order to his troops at Valley Forge to give "the warmest returns of gratitude and piety to the supreme author."

Mr. Johnson then said:

"It is in that spirit that we meet here this morning as members of Congress, the judiciary and the executive branches of the government of the United States. Our Constitution separates church and state. We know that separation is a source of our system's strength but the conscience of our nation does not call for separation between men of state and faith in a supreme being."

Altogether, this presidential prayer breakfast was one of the most impressive of those held annually for the last eleven years. It's heartening to see Republicans and Democrats, representatives of foreign nations as well as our own — worshippers in every faith — sitting down together and, through the medium of voluntary prayer, seeking divine guidance in an era of trouble and anxiety involving the fate of all mankind.

down the ladder when he heard someone shout: "There he is!"

Knowing he had been seen, he started back up the ladder, hoping to escape over the roof, he said.

It was only by chance that Keys happened to be in the building Saturday night and heard the battering sound of the burglar's entry, police said.

Keys was servicing a travel trailer, readying it for delivery, officers said.

The ladder at the top of the elevator shaft extends downward about 10 feet from the little room housing the motors, police said. From the bottom of the ladder, the intruder would have had to have dropped onto the elevator cage, officers said.

The police record on Mercer shows an arrest for an auto theft in 1947 and another for burglary in 1956. While held in the Mahoning County Jail in 1956, Mercer escaped, but he was recaptured shortly, the record shows.

At the preliminary hearing this morning, Lt. Tice and Keys related circumstances surrounding Mercer's arrest.

In an unsworn statement, Mercer told Judge Chertoff he was drunk and did not know how he got on the roof of the three-story brick building. He said he figured he had to crawl down the elevator shaft to get off the roof and that was when he was spotted.

The affidavit signed by Lt. Tice alleges Mercer "in the night season maliciously and forcibly broke and entered an uninhabited building. . .with intent to steal personal property of value."

Chief Americo Radeschi commended Lt. Tice and Officers Blevins, Richard and Montgomery for their "fine work" in nabbing Mercer.

Porter Learned One Thing This Winter

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — Fred Jackson, porter at the St. Louis County Courthouse in Clayton, learned one thing this winter: you don't hose down the sidewalk when it's almost zero.

Jackson's lack of attention to the temperature created a huge expanse of ice on the wide concrete sidewalks and approaches to the courthouse. It looked something like a skating rink.

Witnesses said dignified county officials stepped like ballerinas as they cautiously negotiated the ice to the courthouse front door.

Jackson, meanwhile, was sent out with a ice chopper and rock salt to undo his work.

A World War II veteran, Mr. Clark was born in Wellsvlle July 16, 1924, son of Matthew Clark and Mary Thomas Clark who live at Washington and 3rd Sts. He spent most of his lifetime in East Liverpool.

In addition to his parents and widow, he leaves a daughter, Miss Mary Sue Clark, at home; a brother, Lester Clark of Midland, and three sisters, Miss Gloria Clark and Miss Geraldine Clark, both of East Liverpool, and Mrs. Beatrice Thornhill of West Point.

Moore Names 3 As Prospects In Military Schools

WEIRTON — Three Weirton residents are among 33 young men of the 1st Congressional District nominated by Rep. Arch A. Moore Jr. to compete for his appointments to service academies for entrance this year.

The Republican legislator said they include:

Stephen Anthony Phillips, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen E. Phillips, for the Naval Academy at Annapolis, and Eli Dragisich, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Dragisich, and John Paul Gilliam, 18, son of Mrs. Gaythel Gilliam, for the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo.

The official examination is to be given by the academies March 2.

Slippery Streets Ashed By Crews

City street crews resumed cindering and salting streets made treacherous this morning by a weekend snowfall which melted and froze.

A thin glaze of ice covered most streets and pedestrians found walking hazardous in some areas.

Safety - Service Director Robert Owen said street crews were called out to work early Saturday afternoon to begin cindering and salting as the snow began to make driving hazardous. Police received numerous calls of slippery streets and skidding mishaps.

The crews worked virtually without a break until 1 p. m. Sunday before work was halted to give them time to rest.

Gary Allshouse, 16, of W. Clark St., East Palestine, skidded into a utility pole along Route 46 just west of East Palestine Saturday at 11:05 p. m. He suffered lacerations of the scalp and head and contusions of the chest, officers said.

A Washingtonville girl was injured in a one-car crash Sunday at 11:40 a. m. at the intersection of Routes 172 and 30 west of Lisbon, officers said.

James E. Smith, 21, of 238 W. Chestnut St., Lisbon, lost control of his car on a curve, went off the highway and struck a tree.

He suffered bruises of the head and knees while a passenger, Beverly Shumer, 14, of High St., Washingtonville, received lacerations of the forehead and both knees. She was treated at Salem Central Clinic.

Horses And Canoes Go With Peace Corps

HILO, Hawaii (AP) — Peace Corps trainees in Hawaii learn horsemanship and seamanship during their training program.

Both, says David Englund, associate director of the program, are likely to come in handy when the corpsmen reach their destinations in the Philippines.

In the maritime classes, trainees are taught to manipulate outrigger canoes, still used along Philippine coasts. They also are instructed in fundamentals of the more up-to-date — and more temperamental—outboard motor.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: Here is my nylon net story:

If you are about to be married, buy five yards of white nylon net. At the reception, use it as a tablecloth with colored sheets under it.

Then . . . after the wedding put it away.

It can be used later on to scour pots and for dishcloths. You can even use it to trim the bassinette . . .and to put over the buggy when you put the baby out to sun!

And save some to make a bride doll for your daughter . . . or for your little girl to wear for her wedding veil when playing bride! Without a doubt it is a worthwhile investment!

And one more suggestion! Use a manila envelope marked "Heloise Clippings" to file.

MRS. C. E. RICKETTS.

Cap And Towel Clip

DEAR HELOISE: I sent your idea, of using a clip-type clothes pin to hold a shower cap, to my daughter in college, and told her to clip the shower cap to her towel. This way it is not necessary for her roommates to move the cap when they want to use the shower.

Later, I found some plastic hooks with clips attached which I sent the girls. Now, they can each hang their own shower cap on their own towel bar. Thanks for this tip.

I also bought a clip-type hook for myself and now my shower cap is always handy and I have not had to pick it up from the floor since I started using this idea!

CEN.

Letter Of Thought

DEAR HELOISE: My memory seems to have left me long ago . . . .

Why?

MOTHER OF FIVE.

DEAR MOTHER: Have you done anything recently because YOU wanted to do it? QUIT worrying!

Try doing something for yourself today!

Anyone have an answer for this mother of five children? If so write to Heloise.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: For mothers with children in cribs or bassinettes:

Take your worn and torn sheets and cut them to size and they are as good as any other sheet. These can be made into "fitted" sheets for your child's crib or bassinette.

NANCY.

Color Restorer

DEAR HELOISE: I spilled bleach on a black crepe dress and also on a blue cotton print dress.

After having dresses cleaned and washed respectively . . . I rubbed the faded spots with crayons. I then pressed with a hot iron. I repeated this until the spot was thoroughly covered and then ironed the crepe dress on the wrong side. I ironed the cotton print dress on the right side . . . matched the color of crayons to the print in the dress exactly! It completely covered the bleached spots.

Stees Given Life Term As Parents Meet

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—One of the strange outgrowths of the celebrated Stees murder trial here last week was a drawing together of the parents of the killer and the victim.

Mr. and Mrs. William Stees of Philadelphia, parents of Gene Isaac Stees, and the Rev. and Mrs. Miles Taber of Ashland, parents of the ill-fated Helen Stees, were extremely friendly through the week-long trial.

Gene Stees drew a first-degree murder conviction Saturday for the bludgeon-asphyxiation slaying of his 30-year-old wife last October. The jury decided he had premeditated the murder he tried to hide by putting Mrs. Stees body in a steel drum and dumping in in a lake.

A mercy recommendation spared the life of the 31-year-old former Ohio University assistant professor.

Stees' father—who himself once served a murder sentence — related his admiration for his late daughter-in-law's minister father. The two couples visited nightly at the motel where they stayed during the trial and were amiable in the courtroom.

The elder Stees, a construction worker, expressed a growing respect toward the deeply religious Tabers, who he said showed no bitterness toward his son.

Mrs. Taber and Mrs. Stees both appeared near nervous exhaustion as the trial drew to a close. Mrs. Stees broke down weeping Tuesday when the steel drum was displayed and did not return to court after that. Mrs. Taber and her husband went home to Ashland Friday, as soon as the case went to the jury, and were not here during the nearly 24 hours it took for a verdict to come in.

Thieves Remove Car's Tail Lights

A West End man told police Saturday night thieves removed both tail lights from his 1947 model auto while it was parked on Minerva St.

Otto B. Stockdale, 223 W. 8th St., said the tail lights were stolen between 8 and 8:30 while his auto was parked near the VFW Building.

Anthony J. Yanni of Calcutta told police Saturday night four hubcaps were stolen from his auto between 11:30 p. m. Friday and 12:30 a. m. Saturday while it was parked on Locust St.

Meanwhile, police said a vandal destroyed two decorative wagon wheels at Moore's Midway Diner on the River Rd. about 10:30 p. m. Friday, apparently by driving over them with a vehicle. James Moore, 1978 Lisbon St., was listed as the owner.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: Here is my nylon net story:

If you are about to be married, buy five yards of white nylon net. At the reception, use it as a tablecloth with colored sheets under it.

Then . . . after the wedding put it away.

It can be used later on to scour pots and for dishcloths. You can even use it to trim the bassinette . . .and to put over the buggy when you put the baby out to sun!

And save some to make a bride doll for your daughter . . . or for your little girl to wear for her wedding veil when playing bride! Without a doubt it is a worthwhile investment!

And one more suggestion! Use a manila envelope marked "Heloise Clippings" to file.

MRS. C. E. RICKETTS.

Cap And Towel Clip

DEAR HELOISE: I sent your idea, of using a clip-type clothes pin to hold a shower cap, to my daughter in college, and told her to clip the shower cap to her towel. This way it is not necessary for her roommates to move the cap when they want to use the shower.

Later, I found some plastic hooks with clips attached which I sent the girls. Now, they can each hang their own shower cap on their own towel bar. Thanks for this tip.

I also bought a clip-type hook for myself and now my shower cap is always handy and I have not had to pick it up from the floor since I started using this idea!

CEN.

Letter Of Thought

DEAR HELOISE: My memory seems to have left me long ago . . . .

Why?

MOTHER OF FIVE.

DEAR MOTHER: Have you done anything recently because YOU wanted to do it? QUIT worrying!

Try doing something for yourself today!

Anyone have an answer for this mother of five children? If so write to Heloise.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: For mothers with children in cribs or bassinettes:

Take your worn and torn sheets and cut them to size and they are as good as any other sheet. These can be made into "fitted" sheets for your child's crib or bassinette.

NANCY.

Color Restorer

DEAR HELOISE: I spilled bleach on a black crepe dress and also on a blue cotton print dress.

After having dresses cleaned and washed respectively . . . I rubbed the faded spots with crayons. I then pressed with a hot iron. I repeated this until the spot was thoroughly covered and then ironed the crepe dress on the wrong side. I ironed the cotton print dress on the right side . . . matched the color of crayons to the print in the dress exactly! It completely covered the bleached spots.

Pair Injured As 2 Hancock Autos Collide

Two New Cumberland residents were injured in one of four separate traffic accidents investigated over the weekend by Hancock County sheriff's deputies. Two were blamed on icy highways.

Hurt when their cars collided Saturday night at 10 along State Route 2 were Leo Paugh, 33, of 202 Porter St., and Patricia Gasser, 26, of 1105 Ridge Ave., both New Cumberland.

Deputies said the woman's northbound vehicle skidded across the highway into the path of the car driven by Paugh, causing heavy damage.

Paugh suffered a bruised lip and the woman suffered a broken right arm. They were taken to Weirton General Hospital. No charges were filed in the mishap near Holbert's Run Rd. in the New Cumberland area.

Icy roads were blamed for two accidents Saturday afternoon along State Route 2 south of New Cumberland.

Deputies said the first mishap at 2:40 involved cars driven by Bernard Dawson, 28, and Freddy Boren, 25, both of Weirton. Dawson was pulled from a parked position when his car went across the road and struck Boren's car, deputies said. No charges were filed.

A car driven by Ulysses W. Davis, 42, of Pittsburgh crashed into the car of Virginia A. Richard, 38, of Weirton at 2:45 p. m. on State Route 2 near King's Creek. The Weirton woman was halted for traffic, deputies said.

In a lone mishap Sunday, Charles L. Frontz, 42, of McLean, Va., was charged with failure to have his car under control after his auto struck a Weirton man's vehicle in the rear on Route 30 a quarter mile south of the state line.

Deputies said Frontz struck the car of Caiden A. Barron, 21, of Weirton. The Barron auto was eastbound and halted for a left turn, the sheriff's office said. It happened at 11:40 p. m.

Longies Saved Skin

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — City Patrolman Charles W. Bonner owes his skin to his long underwear. The knife was removed — from the thick insulated underwear. He suffered only a minor scratch.

Burglars Enter Shed At Asphalt Firm Plant

A tool shed at the Tri - State Asphalt Co. plant on the River Rd. was entered sometime Sunday night or early this morning and an attempt to enter the office was unsuccessful, police reported.

The breaking and entering was discovered at 1:32 a. m. today by Patrolman Paul Burson on his rounds.

The officer said a window on the south side of the tool shed had been broken and the burglar then reached in and unlocked the door. He said it is not certain whether anything was obtained from the shed.

The thief removed part of the lock on the office door but was unable to enter, Patrolman Burson said.

In the Bible, the story of Esau's selling of his birthright is found in Genesis.

"You'll get bigger, I know – 'cause I'll feed you regularly. Then you'll grow and grow and grow – just like my savings account at the bank!"

Midland Man Held To Court In Knife Case

A Midland man was bound to the Grand Jury today following a preliminary hearing in Municipal Court on a charge he wounded a 21-year-old East End man Feb. 2.

Arraigned on a felony charge of assault with a dangerous weapon, Winston (Churchill) Twyman, 39, of 444 Midland Ave., Midland, was held by Judge Samuel M. Chertoff on a $1,000 bond.

Twyman pleaded not guilty to the charge filed by Miley Jenrett, 505 Virginia Ave., who received two deep puncture wounds of the upper left thigh and superficial lacerations of the left temple, chin and left thigh.

Jenrett and David Wells, who said he resides at the same address, and Patrolman S. E. Hayes, who investigated the knifing, took the stand this morning.

Wells told the court he received minor lacerations during the scuffle.

Known at first only by his nickname, Twyman was taken into custody Wednesday night in Midland by Police Lt. W. E. McDaniel.

Twyman was arraigned Thursday but Judge Chertoff continued the case at the defendant's request to obtain an attorney. However, he told the court this morning he had been unable to retain counsel.

Mark Pike, post chairman of the Squadron, announced he will send a letter to the Midland Board of Education requesting the use of the old gymnasium for the boys to play basketball.

Lt. William E. Coble, membership chairman, reported that dues are to be paid by June 1 and that the Squadron is seeking new members. Interested boys are to contact Pike or Coble.

The boys have adopted a project for the year — the boys will donate a penny a month to be placed in a pig-shaped plastic container and presented to Children's Hospital in Pittsburgh at Christmas.

Maurice Newman was a guest. Next meeting is Feb. 23.

AS BARE AS THE LEGENDARY CUPBOARD is this safe at the Dresden Ave. store of Loblaw's, Inc., which was cracked by burglars early Saturday. Gene Stockdale, assistant manager who discovered the burglary when he opened the store shortly before 8 a. m., examines the strongbox. The management did not reveal the amount of the loss.

Police Press Investigation Into Burglary

Working with only meager clues, police today continued to seek the identity of thugs who cracked a safe at Loblaw's, Inc., Dresden Ave. store early Saturday and fled with an unknown amount of cash.

Store officials declined to estimate the loss but speculation ranged from several hundred to several thousand dollars. One store employe declared: "It was a pretty good chunk."

Police Chief Americo Radeschi said he has no information on how much was involved.

Those who figured a large amount was taken pointed out Fridays generally are busy days for supermarkets. However, police pointed out all stores bank at least once each day and sometimes more often. Offcers said they provide an escort to the bank whenever a store manager asks for one.

The safecracking was "strictly professional," Chief Radeschi said, with the burglars drilling the tumbler pin out of the safe and cracking a circular cast iron plate with a hammer.

The burglars entered the building by removing a screen from a ventilator shaft and dropping into an enclosed section above a walk-in cooler. Then they dropped several feet to the floor in the rear of the building.

While dropping to the floor, one of the burglars might have been injured, store officials said, explaining one apparently stepped on the end of a heavy meat grinder, causing it to topple over.

The safe is located just outside the small office at the front of the store. However, it was obscured from view from the front by a long line of shopping buggies.

The safecracking was discovered by Gene Stockdale, assistant manager, when he opened the store shortly before 8 a. m. Saturday. The store had been closed at 9:30 p. m. Friday by Glenn Thorne, manager.

Stockdale reported the safecracking to police at 7:57 a. m. and officers completed their investigation at the market at 11.

It was the first major safecracking here in several years and the second time burglars struck at the same building. A safe was cracked nearly 10 years ago when the building housed a Sparkle store.

Hays Picks City Youth

Gilmore Heads Nominees For Air Force Academy

A city youth has received the principal appointment from Congressman Wayne L. Hays as a candidate for the Air Force Academy from the 18th Congressional District.

Receiving the appointment was Robert Gilmore, a senior at East Liverpool High School. He is the son of Drs. William and Edith Gilmore, 905 Manor Ln. He also is governor of the Ohio Key Club organization.

Carl L. McPherson of Lisbon is one of the five alternates who will compete for the principal appointment in the event Gilmore is not successful.

Another way one or more of the alternates can qualify for appointment is to receive an exceptional grade on the entrance examination, thereby qualifying under the alternate appointment system providing there are vacancies after all the principals have been considered.

Michael G. Roth of Salem is one of two principal appointments for the class entering the Naval Academy in 1963. Rep. Hays was permitted two principal appointments for the class due to the declination of one alternate and the failure of principal and alternates to qualify in 1962.

Russell James Edling of Salem is one of Roth's five alternates. Daniel M. Hrnack of Steubenville is the other principal with James L. Hartley of Leetonia listed as first alternate and Dale Patterson Murphy of Columbiana as fifth alternate.

George R. Bacon of Lisbon, Ferdinand Tulencik Jr. of Irondale and William J. Burlingame of East Liverpool have been named by Rep. Hays as candidates for the Merchant Marine Academy.

They will compete with other candidates for the 14 vacancies alloted the state.

Man Given Term In Support Case

An unemployed city man was sentenced to 30 days in the County Jail at Lisbon today in Municipal Court when he pleaded guilty to a charge he failed to support his three children.

Albert Evan Rosenbaum Sr., 101 Thompson Ave., drew the jail term and was ordered to pay the costs by Judge Samuel M. Chertoff on the affidavit filed by Mrs. Pearl Rosenbaum.

Mrs. Rosenbaum said her husband has had only odd jobs since early in December and used the money he received "for booze", and has been gone for several days at a time.

She told the court she has been supporting his three children by a previous marrage on her $23 weekly unemployment check.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

For Danny, It's Always A Mad World

Nobody likes to bluster and explode better than Danny Thomas. If the Lebanese comedian with the soulful eyes can't find someone to deride and outshout, he gladly will get mad at himself for some real or fancied reason.

Hal Humphrey

Waiters used to be a prime target for the Thomas spleen, but they double crossed him by subscribing to his favorite saint.

"How can I bawl out a waiter after the Hotel, Restaurant and Bartenders Union donated $300,000 to the St. Jude Memorial?" Danny moans.

AT THAT PRECISE moment, a waiter at the Brown Derby pulled up at our table to take his order. Danny asked for a shot of six-year-old bourbon. He was told there was only four-year-old bourbon in the Derby's stock.

"Come on!" Danny cried out. "You're going to stand there and tell me that the great Brown Derby hasn't got a bourbon older than four years!"

The waiter blanched and shrugged his shoulders in a gesture of a man pleading for mercy.

Suddenly Danny realized he was addressing one of "the little people" who had contributed to the St. Jude Memorial. Not only did he accept the four-year-old bourbon as if it were ambrosia from the gods, but he choked down some eggs benedict so runny it was necessary to use a spoon.

-:-

"SEE!" Danny hissed. "I never send anything back, and I overtip. Brother, do I overtip now! If this keeps up, I'll be giving back the $300,000 in tips."

Danny found his greatest hostility outlet when he filmed eight of his CBS-TV shows around Europe. Everywhere he went, there was something or somebody to frustrate his rightful pursuit of happiness.

In Venice, his camera crew had to scrub "Yankee Go Home" signs off the walks before they could shoot. In Rome, Danny discovered he had a Communist as one of the cast extras, and he spent days arguing with him.

Paris may be gay and romantic to the average innocent tourist, but to Danny it is one big clip joint. ("The man in the street hates us.")

-:-

ONE AFTERNOON, Danny was accosted on a Paris boulevard by two Mediterranean types who tried to sell him some jewelry. A third fellow joined them almost immediately and explained he would happy to interpret for these unhappy Algerians, or whatever they were.

"I screamed at them in Lebanese. I did a ballet. I let them know I was on to their little game," Danny recalled, "and suddenly this so-called interpreter turns to these salesmen and shouts, 'Leave him alone—he is one of us.'"

One of Danny's Rome shows, to be seen in the U.S. on March 11, was two and a half minutes short, they discovered after getting it in the lab. Writers-producers Chuck Stewart and Jack Elinson added the following scene:

Danny calls for room service, and to prove to Marjorie that the waiter will be overcome if Danny speaks to him in Italian, he instructs the waiter to pour some cream in his cup.

-:-

THE WAITER hesitates, but Danny insist that the cream must go into the "testa." So, the waiter gives in and pours the cream on Danny's head. "Testa" is the word for head. Danny mixed it up with "tazza," the Italian word for cup.

For the viewers, the scene should look funny enough, but to a lot of waiters, it will be downright hilarious.

Incidentally, this is the first season in quite some time that Danny hasn't been threatening to retire from his TV. Series. When asked about it, he was happy to try for another argument.

"I got sick of retiring. And tell me, what would I do if I quit, huh?"

Fr. John P. Cunningham, scout chaplain of St. Aloysius Catholic Church, is shown presening the Parvuli Dei award to Richard King, 10, Cub Scout, son of Mrs. Richard King, 909 May St.

The presentation was made Sunday during the 9 o'clock Mass. In observance of Boy Scout Week, members of Cub Pack 7 and Boy Scout Troop 7 attended Mass and received Holy Communion.

The award is a recognition the church gives to cubs for advancement in religious knowledge and spiritual formation.

To be eligible, a boy must achieve the bear rank and complete 12 religious requirements which are reviewed by the chaplain.

Richard, only the second boy in the parish to attain the medal, is a fifth grade student at St. Aloysius Parochial School and also serves as an altar boy.

Talks Scheduled By Teamsters In Cleveland Strike

CLEVELAND (AP)—Talks between representatives of Teamsters Local 473 and the city's two strikebound daily newspapers — reported by the union attorney to be ready "for a final conclusion" —were to resume this afternoon.

It will be the first meeting between the two groups since Jan. 24.

Saying that every effort would be made to reach agreement on a new contract at today's session, the attorney, Moses Krislov, said it is hoped that such an agreement "will encourage the other unions to move along in their negotiations" with the Plain Dealer and the Press and News.

The non-striking Pressmen's Union is the only one of the 12 newspaper unions that has reached agreement on a contract. It calls for a two-year package with $10 weekly pay increases.

Still to be resolved with the Teamsters are wages and a few other matters, mostly of a technical nature "having to do with the method of how papers will be delivered in the future," Krislov said.

Board Will Announce New County Fair Date

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — Patrolman Wayne Briley has found good use for his high school football experience. Disarmed by a pistol-wielding suspect, Briley, 26, gave chase. A forward pass with a brick threw his quarry off balance and a flying tackle brought him to the ground.

Cimarron Is Fleet's Grand Old Lady At 24

PEARL HARBOR (AP) — The grand old lady of the Pacific is the Fleet Marine Service Force's oiler Cimarron.

She's the Navy's oldest ship in continuous active service — she'll be 24 in March.

The Cimarron served in every major Pacific campaign in World War II and was active throughout the Korean War. During the Korean campaign alone, the Cimarron pumped 115 million gallons of fuel to U. S. Navy vessels.

She is due for rotation from the Seventh Fleet after another tour in Far East waters.

Cooks in her galleys and at Pearl Harbor Naval Base are beginning to bake the old lady a cake. They feel she deserves one.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Wilfred's mother is a domineering woman. I've tried to stay out of her way because she has a sharp tongue and a hot temper.

Last week we took our children to Granny's house. The two-year-old got hold of an ash tray and started to bang it on the floor. When I took it away from him he began to cry. Granny snatched the ash tray out of my hands and gave it to the child, saying, "If he breaks it, so what? It's only an ash tray."

I was irritated and replied, "I'm trying to teach the boy respect for property. He is MY child and I don't think you should interfere."

Granny shot back, "He's YOUR child, all right, but is he Wilfred's? We haven't had a brown-eyed blond in our family for a hundred years."

My husband heard this and said nothing. I almost bawled. When we got home I told Wilfred he should have spoken up but he said, "She is my mother and I must always respect her."

Was he right or wrong to remain silent? — CRUSHED WIFE.

-:-

Dear Wife: No husband should allow such a damaging remark to go unchallenged. It was unmanly of Wilfred to remain silent. Your husband's reply to his mother need not have been disrespectful. But a single sentence expressing complete confidence in you was clearly in order.

Unfair To Wives

Dear Ann: What are you trying to do—set females back 50 years?

I almost swallowed my gum when you told the girl who was planning to be married that she and her husband should own everything "jointly." You said, "The less thine and mine the better."

A husband is supposed to support his wife, isn't he? If not, what does she need him for?

I've been married five years. My salary is almost as big as my husband's. He doesn't see one penny of my check. He gives me $110 a week to run the house. He waved your stupid column under my nose and said, "See, this is what I've been trying to tell you."

He thinks we should pool our checks and put something away every month for our retirement. I say, "Nothing doing." I'm putting my money away for ME. He can take care of himself.—DUMB LIKE A FOX.

Dear Dumb Fox: I doubt that your husband married you to cash in on your pay check. He probably expected love, companionship and understanding. Your letter suggests he is getting nothing out of this marriage — and paying $110 a week for it.

To borrow your phrase, "What did he need YOU for?"

Broken Engagement

Dear Ann: Six months ago my niece's engagement was announced. The wedding was set for March. We were all delighted. The young man came from a prominent family and all the prospects for a good life were present.

Several parties were given to honor the couple and my niece received some beautiful wedding gifts. Last week the mother of the bride-to-be wrote a cryptic three-line note to all members of the immediate family saying the engagement has been broken. This morning the gift we sent was returned.

No one has a clue as to why the wedding is off. It's insulting to be left totally in the dark and treated as if we were strangers. I feel they owe the family an explanation. Do you agree? — SLAPPED IN THE FACE.

Dear Face: I do not. The reasons are none of your business. Inevitably, this is a painful experience for the young girl and her family and if you want to make the ordeal more bearable, don't ask any questions.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Wilfred's mother is a domineering woman. I've tried to stay out of her way because she has a sharp tongue and a hot temper.

Last week we took our children to Granny's house. The two-year-old got hold of an ash tray and started to bang it on the floor. When I took it away from him he began to cry. Granny snatched the ash tray out of my hands and gave it to the child, saying, "If he breaks it, so what? It's only an ash tray."

I was irritated and replied, "I'm trying to teach the boy respect for property. He is MY child and I don't think you should interfere."

Granny shot back, "He's YOUR child, all right, but is he Wilfred's? We haven't had a brown-eyed blond in our family for a hundred years."

My husband heard this and said nothing. I almost bawled. When we got home I told Wilfred he should have spoken up but he said, "She is my mother and I must always respect her."

Was he right or wrong to remain silent? — CRUSHED WIFE.

-:-

Dear Wife: No husband should allow such a damaging remark to go unchallenged. It was unmanly of Wilfred to remain silent. Your husband's reply to his mother need not have been disrespectful. But a single sentence expressing complete confidence in you was clearly in order.

Unfair To Wives

Dear Ann: What are you trying to do—set females back 50 years?

I almost swallowed my gum when you told the girl who was planning to be married that she and her husband should own everything "jointly." You said, "The less thine and mine the better."

A husband is supposed to support his wife, isn't he? If not, what does she need him for?

I've been married five years. My salary is almost as big as my husband's. He doesn't see one penny of my check. He gives me $110 a week to run the house. He waved your stupid column under my nose and said, "See, this is what I've been trying to tell you."

He thinks we should pool our checks and put something away every month for our retirement. I say, "Nothing doing." I'm putting my money away for ME. He can take care of himself.—DUMB LIKE A FOX.

Dear Dumb Fox: I doubt that your husband married you to cash in on your pay check. He probably expected love, companionship and understanding. Your letter suggests he is getting nothing out of this marriage — and paying $110 a week for it.

To borrow your phrase, "What did he need YOU for?"

Broken Engagement

Dear Ann: Six months ago my niece's engagement was announced. The wedding was set for March. We were all delighted. The young man came from a prominent family and all the prospects for a good life were present.

Several parties were given to honor the couple and my niece received some beautiful wedding gifts. Last week the mother of the bride-to-be wrote a cryptic three-line note to all members of the immediate family saying the engagement has been broken. This morning the gift we sent was returned.

No one has a clue as to why the wedding is off. It's insulting to be left totally in the dark and treated as if we were strangers. I feel they owe the family an explanation. Do you agree? — SLAPPED IN THE FACE.

Dear Face: I do not. The reasons are none of your business. Inevitably, this is a painful experience for the young girl and her family and if you want to make the ordeal more bearable, don't ask any questions.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Warm, Vibrant Colors Swing Into Spotlight

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

When experts pool their talents as they do at home-furnishings markets, one is likely to get a clearer-than-usual picture of what to use with what.

A person who likes a vibrant orange chair will find it looks terrible when placed next to a white wall. But give it an olive or brown-green background, and the piece mellows.

Winter markets in Chicago and New York clearly pointed to the use of bright upholsteries, fabrics and painted furniture, all flattering to new Spanish, Mediterranean and other traditional and contemporary influences.

Bright warm reds, aquamarine, Persian pink, lavender, purples, blues from iridescent medium to indigo were found in more upholstered pieces and drapery fabrics than heretofore.

So, how to use these colors successfully if you are your own decorator?

For one thing, you'll probably need a new paint job.

Olive - green walls were used to set off a dining room set upholstered in palest melon. Walls in a brown - green range set off furniture upholstered in orange with another piece covered in a print of an orange - green and tawny brown.

Sometimes one can manage by painting one existing white wall a color so that the room can "take it". This was accomplished in a bedroom setting. A bright red upholstered occasional chair and a bedspread and pillows were of the same bright hue as the wall behind the headboard. The other three walls were left white. The consensus was that an exciting red-on-red picture was created.

Wall colors were often the same shade as colors in upholstered pieces. This was true of bright blue used in dining, living, den and foyer settings. In some instances a deeper indigo blue or a "hot brown" paint was used.

In one room setting, a hot, true orange was used for both upholstery and one wall. But a little orange can go a long way, and if one is working without a decorator it is wise to temper one's instincts toward vivid walls.

It isn't wise either to have more than one large upholstered piece or two small ones in that hue.

Pale lavender walls were used as a background in a room setting where a couch was upholstered in lavender and occasional chairs featured prints in the lavender-blue-green range.

Paint experts say that white walls are definitely out. The trend to darker walls was dramatically emphasized in rooms with black and slate gray walls as a background for furniture featuring melon, orange, red or russet. This makes an effective wall, too, for hanging colorful prints or paintings.

In painted furniture, finishes include antique red, barn and russet red, light blue, pale blue - green, medium blue, yellow, gold, white, white with maroon. Gold and silver stenciling was also featured on antique finishes.

Painted chairs are further dramatized by the use of contrasting hues in cushions, and in some instances these can be dramatic, depending upon where the chair is to be used. Black and white checkerboard patterns are popular for red, white and blue painted chairs.

2 Bandits Get $2,250 From Zanesville Man

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Police searched today for two or more robbers who staged a well-planned holdup at the home and cafe of Nathan Salovon, 63.

Two masked robbers had broken into Salovon's home early Sunday and were waiting there when he closed his business place, officers said. They robbed him of $250 in cash and $1,000 in jewelry, and also forced him at gunpoint to give them the key to his cafe and combination to its safe.

One of the gunmen held Salovon captive while the other went to the cafe in Salovon's car, took $800 to $900 from the safe and returned in another car, possibly with a third man.

They left Salovon bound and gagged but he was able to free himself a short time later. Salovon, a widower, lives alone.

Try greasing a pan in which you are going to bake piazza pie with corn meal before placing your dough in it. Bake as usual. The corn meal not only keeps piazza from sticking to the pan but also adds a pleasing flavor.

Winter and Your Septic Tank

Unlike humans, who heat their homes in winter, or even animals, who have hairy bodies to keep them warm, the poor little bacteria in septic tanks and waste disposal systems have no protection against those harsh winter months ahead.

Since a temperature drop of only a few degrees will kill billions of these hard working microbes, the reduced bacterial population becomes incapable of disposing of the waste which enters such systems, resulting in clogged and unsanitary conditions.

These bacteria, mainly the colon-type, are produced in the human body at a temperature of 98.6° F., and lose their ability to produce their own enzymes for solids liquification as the temperature drops literally starving to death. Quoting from SEWERAGE and SEWAGE TREATMENT: (1)

"Temperature of sludge digestion — the most practical optimum temperature of sludge digestion, known as the Mesophlic Range, is between 80° F. and 90° F., preferably about 85°. As the temperature drops, bacterial action diminishes almost in proportion until at about 50° F. It practically ceases."

Naturally, since the temperatures in unheated sewage systems average between 50° F. and 60° F. in winter, it may readily be seen that trouble can be expected.

HOW SEA-CAL ENZYMES HELP

Enzymes are not as susceptible to low temperatures as are bacteria, and it has been proven that their liquifying ability continues as slow as 35° F. Therefore, SEA-CAL takes over the reduction of the solids, producing food in AVAILABLE form for the reduced bacteria population, enabling them to continue their valuable work, and to produce clear effluents for transmission to drainfields and cesspools. Since SEA-CAL also contains strains of virile bacteria by the million per gram, fresh populations are added each time a treatment is made.

For only a few pennies per treatment, for the average home system, SEA-CAL insures year-round protection from costly service problems, and unsanitary conditions.

USE SEA-CAL ENZYMES REGULARLY ALL YEAR. INCREASING DOSES IN WINTER.

Table Saw Is Labeled 'Workhorse' Of Shop

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

The wide variety of power tools on the market has in no way interfered with the designation of the table saw as the workhorse of the home shop.

It is the prime example of power equipment when it comes to a demonstration of the advantages of electric tools in general-advantages such as saving time and labor and getting quality work.

Since most home handyman projects involve the cutting of wood, the table saw, also known as the bench or circular saw, is the key tool in the operation.

No matter what is to be done to the wood eventually, it must first be cut to size. And with the use of the proper accessories, the table saw can perform many other functions as well.

There are two types of table saws. The most popular is known as the tilting arbor. When the arbor, on which the blade is attached, is tilted, diagonal cuts can be made on the stock.

The other type is called the tilting table. In this case, the arbor and blade remain stationary, but the table is tilted when diagonal cuts are to be made. A tilting table saw requires a little more care and acquired skill to operate, but usually costs less than the tilting arbor saw.

Table saws get their designation from the diameter of the size blades which can be used on the particular models.

Thus, a saw which can handle an 8-inch blade is called an 8-inch saw, and so on. This is the usual size for a home workshop, although many thousands of 6 and 10-inch saws are sold each year. An 8-inch saw can make a maximum cut of 2 and one-half inches in depth at one time. By turning the wood over for a second cut, you can slice through a piece of wood 5 inches in depth.

Most of the time when you buy a table saw, you buy a motor at the same time. But if you already have a motor, it can be used with a saw, provided that it falls within the manufacturer's recommended range for that model. An 8-inch saw, for instance, might have a recommendation for a one-half horsepower motor.

The table saw is a powerful tool and must be handled carefully. Manufacturers build many safety features into their machines these days, but it won't do you any good if you don't take advantage of them.

The blade guard mechanism is the best example of this. At first, when unfamiliar with the machine, most people use the guard at all times. Later, as they get used to the saw, there is a dangerous inclination not to use the guard.

Among the safety rules for the use of a table saw are these: make no adjustment when the blade is turning; pull out the electric plug when changing blades; and always keep your eye on the blade as the wood is being fed into it.

If someone comes into the workshop to engage in conversation, shut off the motor immediately to avoid the tendency to look up from the work.

The boom year for babies in the United States was in 1951 when more than 3,900,000 infants made their bow into the world.

Union Aide Says State Employes Get Work Forms

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Forms have been circulated for state employes to sign if they will work on Lincoln's birthday anniversary Tuesday or Washington's Feb. 22, an AFL-CIO official contends.

Robert H. Hastings, director of Ohio Public Employes, Council 8, American Federation of State, City and Municipal Employes, AFL-CIO, said in a prepared statement:

"(Gov. James A.) Rhodes' contempt for state works is most evident in the circulation by department heads of a 'will-work-Lincoln's Birthday' form asking employes to sign if they are going to work on Feb. 12 or 22."

But John M. McElroy, administrative assistant to the governor, said Rhodes has not directed such forms to be circulated and there "has been no discussion of it at cabinet level."

The Rhodes administration was to omit the holiday allegedly for economy reasons. The 10th District Court of Appeals is expected to rule today. The state appeals after Judge Dana F. Reynolds of Franklin County Common Pleas Court granted a permanent injunction Jan. 31 against omitting the holidays.

Gov. Rhodes says his request for employes to volunteer to work Tuesday and Feb. 22 will stand whatever the Appeals Court does. State Finance Director Richard L. Krabach says there are some instances, particularly in hospitals and correctional institutions, where employes will be directed to report. If they are ordered to work, they will get compensatory overtime, he said.

Old And New Do Good Job If Combined

PORTLAND, Ore. — If you like old-fashioned charm but new-fangled convenience in a home, why not combine the two?

It's perfectly possible to build a home in the modern vein, complete with space-saving built - ins, clean lines and natural wood finished walls and ceilings, then add the touches which make the home "Early American" or at least "traditional".

Take the living room, for instance. It could have a modern shell of lovely V-groove, random width west coast hemlock wall paneling, finished with a clear, satin varnish to capture all the natural beauties of this exquisite, creamy beige wood.

The clear finish is a modern trend, popular because of its low upkeep. And the lighter colored woods such as hemlock are modern, too, in the sense that they have been discovered and exploited for prestige wall surfaces only in recent decades.

Their great advantage is that they are rich in color, yet light-reflecting which gives a room a much more open, sunny feeling than the dark-stained woods of yesteryear.

Hemlock and the other beige-toned woods are known for their ability to blend with other materials and they set off beautifully the fine polished pieces of mahogany and walnut furniture which usually appear in the traditional home.

The ceiling also could follow the modern trend with wood paneling and exposed beams. These could be finished clear or the panels could be clear with the beams dark stained. Or you could pull a switch and paint the entire ceiling white, which seems particularly in character for a home furnished in the Early American manner.

The fireplace wall should try to capture some of the traditional feeling planned for the room's furnishings. This is easily done by using lovely picture molding around the firepit, and perhaps facing the inner edge with tile. Built-in bookshelves and closed cabinets in the fireplace wall would be entirely appropriate for a traditional home, but are delightfully modern in convenience.

With this shell once in place, the lady of the house is free to add anything that pleases her in the way of furniture — chairs covered in petit point or Oriental rugs.

Father, 20, Held In Fatal Fight At Columbus Dance

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ollie Todd, 20-year-old father of three children, headed into Municipal Court today for a preliminary hearing on charges of fatally stabbing a youth at a Valentine Dance for teenagers.

The victim, Richard Eugene Brown, 17, of Columbus, was knifed in the chest Saturday night during a brawl that involved upwards of 100 persons. No one else was seriously hurt in the fracas which was quickly broken up by scores of policemen.

Todd, who has three small sons including twins, fled the scene as police arrived but later surrendered at police headquarters and told officers he wielded the knife. He was charged with first degree manslaughter.

The fight is believed to have started when a group of East Side youths went to the dance for students on the West Side. Todd said he was invited by a group of his younger friends.

Prosecutor Earl Allison said some of the youths were carrying jack handles and tools. The windows of a car belonging to an East Side youth was smashed, he said.

About 50 youths, along with some girls who witnessed the fight, were taken to headquarters for questioning. Six of these, including two juveniles, were charged with fighting. All but two were released on bond. No girls were held.

Only white youths were involved, Allison said.

Warm, Vibrant Colors Swing Into Spotlight

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

When experts pool their talents as they do at home-furnishings markets, one is likely to get a clearer-than-usual picture of what to use with what.

A person who likes a vibrant orange chair will find it looks terrible when placed next to a white wall. But give it an olive or brown-green background, and the piece mellows.

Winter markets in Chicago and New York clearly pointed to the use of bright upholsteries, fabrics and painted furniture, all flattering to new Spanish, Mediterranean and other traditional and contemporary influences.

Bright warm reds, aquamarine, Persian pink, lavender, purples, blues from iridescent medium to indigo were found in more upholstered pieces and drapery fabrics than heretofore.

So, how to use these colors successfully if you are your own decorator?

For one thing, you'll probably need a new paint job.

Olive - green walls were used to set off a dining room set upholstered in palest melon. Walls in a brown - green range set off furniture upholstered in orange with another piece covered in a print of an orange - green and tawny brown.

Sometimes one can manage by painting one existing white wall a color so that the room can "take it". This was accomplished in a bedroom setting. A bright red upholstered occasional chair and a bedspread and pillows were of the same bright hue as the wall behind the headboard. The other three walls were left white. The consensus was that an exciting red-on-red picture was created.

Wall colors were often the same shade as colors in upholstered pieces. This was true of bright blue used in dining, living, den and foyer settings. In some instances a deeper indigo blue or a "hot brown" paint was used.

In one room setting, a hot, true orange was used for both upholstery and one wall. But a little orange can go a long way, and if one is working without a decorator it is wise to temper one's instincts toward vivid walls.

It isn't wise either to have more than one large upholstered piece or two small ones in that hue.

Pale lavender walls were used as a background in a room setting where a couch was upholstered in lavender and occasional chairs featured prints in the lavender-blue-green range.

Paint experts say that white walls are definitely out. The trend to darker walls was dramatically emphasized in rooms with black and slate gray walls as a background for furniture featuring melon, orange, red or russet. This makes an effective wall, too, for hanging colorful prints or paintings.

In painted furniture, finishes include antique red, barn and russet red, light blue, pale blue - green, medium blue, yellow, gold, white, white with maroon. Gold and silver stenciling was also featured on antique finishes.

Painted chairs are further dramatized by the use of contrasting hues in cushions, and in some instances these can be dramatic, depending upon where the chair is to be used. Black and white checkerboard patterns are popular for red, white and blue painted chairs.

WARM CHARM of the traditional mates with the modern approach in this lovely living room. Champagne-hued, random width west coast hemlock paneling on walls is pleasantly accented by white paint on open beamed ceiling. Fireplace is faced with antique hand-painted tiles.

2 Bandits Get $2,250 From Zanesville Man

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Police searched today for two or more robbers who staged a well-planned holdup at the home and cafe of Nathan Salovon, 63.

Two masked robbers had broken into Salovon's home early Sunday and were waiting there when he closed his business place, officers said. They robbed him of $250 in cash and $1,000 in jewelry, and also forced him at gunpoint to give them the key to his cafe and combination to its safe.

One of the gunmen held Salovon captive while the other went to the cafe in Salovon's car, took $800 to $900 from the safe and returned in another car, possibly with a third man.

They left Salovon bound and gagged but he was able to free himself a short time later. Salovon, a widower, lives alone.

Table Saw Is Labeled 'Workhorse' Of Shop

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

The wide variety of power tools on the market has in no way interfered with the designation of the table saw as the workhorse of the home shop.

It is the prime example of power equipment when it comes to a demonstration of the advantages of electric tools in general-advantages such as saving time and labor and getting quality work.

Since most home handyman projects involve the cutting of wood, the table saw, also known as the bench or circular saw, is the key tool in the operation.

No matter what is to be done to the wood eventually, it must first be cut to size. And with the use of the proper accessories, the table saw can perform many other functions as well.

There are two types of table saws. The most popular is known as the tilting arbor. When the arbor, on which the blade is attached, is tilted, diagonal cuts can be made on the stock.

The other type is called the tilting table. In this case, the arbor and blade remain stationary, but the table is tilted when diagonal cuts are to be made. A tilting table saw requires a little more care and acquired skill to operate, but usually costs less than the tilting arbor saw.

Table saws get their designation from the diameter of the size blades which can be used on the particular models.

Thus, a saw which can handle an 8-inch blade is called an 8-inch saw, and so on. This is the usual size for a home workshop, although many thousands of 6 and 10-inch saws are sold each year. An 8-inch saw can make a maximum cut of 2 and one-half inches in depth at one time. By turning the wood over for a second cut, you can slice through a piece of wood 5 inches in depth.

Most of the time when you buy a table saw, you buy a motor at the same time. But if you already have a motor, it can be used with a saw, provided that it falls within the manufacturer's recommended range for that model. An 8-inch saw, for instance, might have a recommendation for a one-half horsepower motor.

The table saw is a powerful tool and must be handled carefully. Manufacturers build many safety features into their machines these days, but it won't do you any good if you don't take advantage of them.

The blade guard mechanism is the best example of this. At first, when unfamiliar with the machine, most people use the guard at all times. Later, as they get used to the saw, there is a dangerous inclination not to use the guard.

Among the safety rules for the use of a table saw are these: make no adjustment when the blade is turning; pull out the electric plug when changing blades; and always keep your eye on the blade as the wood is being fed into it.

If someone comes into the workshop to engage in conversation, shut off the motor immediately to avoid the tendency to look up from the work.

Union Aide Says State Employes Get Work Forms

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Forms have been circulated for state employes to sign if they will work on Lincoln's birthday anniversary Tuesday or Washington's Feb. 22, an AFL-CIO official contends.

Robert H. Hastings, director of Ohio Public Employes, Council 8, American Federation of State, City and Municipal Employes, AFL-CIO, said in a prepared statement:

"(Gov. James A.) Rhodes' contempt for state works is most evident in the circulation by department heads of a 'will-work-Lincoln's Birthday' form asking employes to sign if they are going to work on Feb. 12 or 22."

But John M. McElroy, administrative assistant to the governor, said Rhodes has not directed such forms to be circulated and there "has been no discussion of it at cabinet level."

The Rhodes administration was to omit the holiday allegedly for economy reasons. The 10th District Court of Appeals is expected to rule today. The state appeals after Judge Dana F. Reynolds of Franklin County Common Pleas Court granted a permanent injunction Jan. 31 against omitting the holidays.

Gov. Rhodes says his request for employes to volunteer to work Tuesday and Feb. 22 will stand whatever the Appeals Court does. State Finance Director Richard L. Krabach says there are some instances, particularly in hospitals and correctional institutions, where employes will be directed to report. If they are ordered to work, they will get compensatory overtime, he said.

Old And New Do Good Job If Combined

PORTLAND, Ore. — If you like old-fashioned charm but new-fangled convenience in a home, why not combine the two?

It's perfectly possible to build a home in the modern vein, complete with space-saving built-ins, clean lines and natural wood finished walls and ceilings, then add the touches which make the home "Early American" or at least "traditional".

Take the living room, for instance. It could have a modern shell of lovely V-groove, random width west coast hemlock wall paneling, finished with a clear, satin varnish to capture all the natural beauties of this exquisite, creamy beige wood.

The clear finish is a modern trend, popular because of its low upkeep. And the lighter colored woods such as hemlock are modern, too, in the sense that they have been discovered and exploited for prestige wall surfaces only in recent decades.

Their great advantage is that they are rich in color, yet light-reflecting which gives a room a much more open, sunny feeling than the dark-stained woods of yesteryear.

Hemlock and the other beige-toned woods are known for their ability to blend with other materials and they set off beautifully the fine polished pieces of mahogany and walnut furniture which usually appear in the traditional home.

The ceiling also could follow the modern trend with wood paneling and exposed beams. These could be finished clear or the panels could be clear with the beams dark stained. Or you could pull a switch and paint the entire ceiling white, which seems particularly in character for a home furnished in the Early American manner.

The fireplace wall should try to capture some of the traditional feeling planned for the room's furnishings. This is easily done by using lovely picture molding around the firepit, and perhaps facing the inner edge with tile. Built-in bookshelves and closed cabinets in the fireplace wall would be entirely appropriate for a traditional home, but are delightfully modern in convenience.

With this shell once in place, the lady of the house is free to add anything that pleases her in the way of furniture — chairs covered in petit point or Oriental rugs.

Father, 20, Held In Fatal Fight At Columbus Dance

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ollie Todd, 20-year-old father of three children, headed into Municipal Court today for a preliminary hearing on charges of fatally stabbing a youth at a Valentine Dance for teenagers.

The victim, Richard Eugene Brown, 17, of Columbus, was knifed in the chest Saturday night during a brawl that involved upwards of 100 persons. No one else was seriously hurt in the fracas which was quickly broken up by scores of policemen.

Todd, who has three small sons including twins, fled the scene as police arrived but later surrendered at police headquarters and told officers he wielded the knife. He was charged with first degree manslaughter.

The fight is believed to have started when a group of East Side youths went to the dance for students on the West Side. Todd said he was invited by a group of his younger friends.

Prosecutor Earl Allison said some of the youths were carrying jack handles and tools. The windows of a car belonging to an East Side youth was smashed, he said.

About 50 youths, along with some girls who witnessed the fight, were taken to headquarters for questioning. Six of these, including two juveniles, were charged with fighting. All but two were released on bond. No girls were held.

Only white youths were involved, Allison said.

Winter and Your Septic Tank

Unlike humans, who heat their homes in winter, or even animals, who have hairy bodies to keep them warm the poor little bacteria in septic tanks and waste disposal systems have no protection against those harsh winter months ahead.

Since a temperature drop of only a few degrees will kill billions of these hard working microbes, the reduced bacterial population becomes incapable of disposing of the waste which enters such systems, resulting in clogged and unsanitary conditions.

These bacteria, mainly the colon-type, are produced in the human body at a temperature of 98.6° F., and lose their ability to produce their own enzymes for solids liquification as the temperature drops literally starving to death. Quoting from SEWERAGE and SEWAGE TREATMENT: (1)

"Temperature of sludge digestion — the most practical optimum temperature of sludge digestion, known as the Mesophlic Range, is between 80° F. and 90° F., preferably about 85°. As the temperature drops, bacterial action diminishes almost in proportion until at about 50° F. It practically ceases."

Naturally, since the temperatures in unheated sewage systems average between 50° F. and 60° F. in winter, it may readily be seen that trouble can be expected.

HOW SEA-CAL ENZYMES HELP

Enzymes are not as susceptible to low temperatures as are bacteria, and it has been proven that their liquifying ability continues as slow as 35° F. Therefore, SEA-CAL takes over the reduction of the solids, producing food in AVAILABLE form for the reduced bacteria population, enabling them to continue their valuable work, and to produce clear effluents for transmission to drainfields and cesspools. Since SEA-CAL also contains strains of virile bacteria by the million per gram, fresh populations are added each time a treatment is made.

For only a few pennies per treatment, for the average home system, SEA-CAL insures year-round protection from costly service problems, and unsanitary conditions.

USE SEA-CAL ENZYMES REGULARLY ALL YEAR, INCREASING DOSES IN WINTER.

Potters Tripped At Niles, 67-57

4 Dragon Starters Gain Twin Figures; Cline Hits For 22

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

The East Liverpool Potters can win at home, but on a foreign court they don't look like the same club.

This was in evidence Saturday night at Niles when they passed themselves right off the court in dropping a 67-57 decision to a mediocre Red Dragon five.

Poor passes by the Potters flew all over the Niles floor as a zone press was good enough to upset the Blue and White.

The defeat snapped a three-game winning streak compiled by the Potters and left them with a 5-10 record with three games to go on the 1962-63 schedule.

—:—

THE PRE-GAME warning was that Niles was a balanced club, all five starters usually hit in the double figures. The report wasn't far from wrong.

Niles picked up its ninth victory in 14 starts and now stands 3-3 in the Big 8 Conference. East Liverpool has won one game in seven Conference outings.

The Red Dragons fired 42 per cent, hitting 30 of 71 attempts. The scoring for Niles went like this: Dick Leonard was high with 16, Don Andres and Bo Rein had 15 each and Dave Nestor 6-4 center hit for 13. Tom James, a 5-11 guard, was the only starter not to hit the twin figures, but chipped in with six points.

DEAN CLINE was his usual self, the Potter star hitting for his average, collecting 22 points. Cline had a good shooting night, firing over 50 per cent on 9 of 16 attempts. He was forced to shoot from farther out and did with accuracy.

Cline and Tom Kraft, substitute guard, provided the balance of East Liverpool's offense. Kraft, who broke into the lineup in the second period, went on to tally 14 points, all coming from the field. The game marked Kraft's top scoring performance to date this season.

ED PRENTICE was next in the scoring column with eight points, while Frank McComas was held to only two field goals and failed to score in the second half. Roger Linville wound up with six points and Bob Forzano didn't score from the field, but added a pair of fouls.

East Liverpool's shooting percentage was 39, coming on 24 of 61 attempts.

Coach Jim Harris watched his team make several determined bids Saturday night only to see the rallies go right out the window.

TRAILING by 10 points in the second quarter, the Potters, mainly on the shooting of Kraft, pulled within three points 31-28, but fell behind at halftime, 37-32.

Opening the third period, East Liverpool made its last attempt to catch the Dragons. Cline scored six straight points and with 3:53 remaining in the quarter Ed Prentice tallied to bring ELHS within one point, 41-40.

THEN came the downfall. The Potter guards threw three bad passes in a row and Niles capitalized on the miscues and tallied 10 straight points to put the game on ice 51-40. In that 10-point flurry, Leonard scored three baskets. At one time in the fourth period, the margin reached 15 points.

East Liverpool will travel to Martins Ferry Friday night, then return to face Youngstown East Saturday night in the final home game of the season. The Potters will close out the campaign Feb. 22 at Weirton.

Lisbon Downs Clippers To Tie For Lead

Blue Devils Make It 2 Straight Over Rival

COLUMBIANA — The mixed up Tri-County League was all tied up today after Lisbon posted a 44-34 surprise before a packed house here Saturday night.

The victory was the second over Columbiana and puts the two teams in a deadlock for first place.

On Friday, Columbiana could have just about sowed up the title but lost to Minerva while Lisbon was losing to Poland. The Clippers and Blue Devils now hold 9-3 league marks.

Saturday's contest was pretty much decided in the second quarter when Lisbon scored 15 points while Columbiana could only come up with two markers.

The Clippers broke on top 10-8 but Coach Gary Pike's team came racing back to take a 23-12 margin at halftime. The third quarter still showed Lisbon in front 31-23.

Dave Rose with 13 points and Craig Pannier's 10 markers led the way for Lisbon. Jim Ward and Rick Perrin shared the honors for Columbiana with 11 each.

The first meeting between the two schools at Lisbon went to the Blue Devils, 55-44.

Lisbon will finish its Tri-County schedule at East Palestine Friday then meet Sebring at home Saturday.

Columbiana goes to Poland Friday then plays host to Leetonia Saturday.

Cincinnati Eyes All-Time College Win Streak Of 60

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Two-time national champion Cincinnati, already virtually assured of winning the Missouri Valley Conference Championship and the ticket to the NCAA tournament that goes with the title, is beginning to look ahead to its long, long range goal—the longest winning streak ever by a college team.

The Bearcats, boasting a 37-game winning streak—19 this season—after edging Bradley 65-61 Saturday night, have their eye on San Francisco's all-time string of 60 straight made in 1955-56.

Right now, Cincinnati is tied with North Carolina and Texas for the No. 3 spot. Seton Hall, from 1939 to 1941, and Long Island University, from 1935 to 1937, share the runner-up spot with 39 each.

If Ed Jucker's club continues at its present pace, it could hit the 60 mark just about this time next season.

But there are pitfalls all along the way. This Saturday's game at Wichita is one of them. For one thing, the Shockers never have been any pushover. They whipped the Bearcats early last season, 52-51, just before the current Cincinnati streak got under way. Further, they are 11-1 on their home court this year.

St. Louis, currently in second place with a 5-2 conference record against the Bearcats' 8-0, turned back Wichita 68-61 Saturday night and now has the inside track for a bid to the National Invitation Tournament in New York which usually goes to the runner-up.

Here is how the other major conferences shape up as the season heads into the home stretch:

Big Ten—Illinois, No. 4 in the weekly Associated Press poll on a 14-2 record, 6-0 in the league, crushed Michigan State Saturday 91-86 and appears headed for its first title in 11 years. Defending champion Ohio State and Minnesota both are 5-2. The Buckeyes defeated Wisconsin 94-70 and the Gophers stopped Purdue 80-73 Saturday.

Southeastern Conference — Defending co-champion Mississippi State is 7-1 in the league and 16-4 over-all after getting past Tennessee, 63-59. Auburn still is hanging on at 6-2 and 14-2. Auburn barely beat Georgia 70-67 in overtime Saturday night. Georgia Tech lost two in a row and now is tied for third with Kentucky at 6-3. Louisiana State shocked the Engineers 56-54 Saturday.

Atlantic Coast Conference—Duke, 10-0 in the league, 17-2 over-all and third-ranked behind Cincinnati and Loyola of Chicago, can clinch the regular-season championship with victories over Virginia Wednesday and Wake Forest Saturday. That would give the Blue Devils the No. 1 seeding in the conference tournament starting Feb. 28 in Raleigh. They just did get past North Carolina State Saturday, 56-55.

Southwest Conference — Texas clobbered its No. 1 rival, Southern Methodist 77-62, Saturday to run its conference record to 7-0. Rice now is in second place at 5-2.

Southern Conference — William and Mary upset West Virginia 75-72 Saturday. That gave the Mountaineers a 9-2 record in the league—which is somewhat of a moral victory for the rest of the teams. Rarely does West Virginia lose more than one game in the loop. The Mountaineers still seem assured of entering the conference tournament opening Feb. 28 in Richmond as the top seed.

Big Eight—Colorado swept past Kansas 62-52 Saturday night to run its league record to 6-1. But both Oklahoma State, which broke Iowa State's seven-game winning streak 54-50, and Kansas State, a 100-69 winner over Oklahoma, are hanging on at 5-2. Colorado still must play Oklahoma State and Kansas State, so things are far from settled.

Big Six—Washington, which defeated California for the second straight night Saturday 65-58 leads the pack by a half-game. Second place Stanford polished off UCLA 86-78.

Western Athletic Conference — Both Arizona State University and Brigham Young show identical 4-1 league records. They meet Saturday for the title. A-State defeated the Cougars earlier in the season 89-84.

Ivy League—Cornell is the surprise leader with a 5-2 league record compared to 5-3 each for the favorites, Princeton and Penn. The Big Red hammered Dartmouth 75-62 for its seventh in a row over-all Saturday.

Phoenix Open Continues Today As Palmer Leads

By CARL BELL

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Arnold Palmer carried a one-stroke lead into the weather-delayed final round of the Phoenix Open Golf Tournament today.

Tournament officials decided this morning that the course had recovered sufficiently from a rain and hail storm which washed out play Sunday and that the firing for $35,000 in prize money could be resumed.

The wind-up was scheduled Sunday but a storm, striking 10 minutes after the sponsors' $7,000 rain insurance expired, forced the first postponement in the tournament's 28-year history.

A fan died of a heart attack after running to the clubhouse to escape the driving rain and hail.

Palmer, with a 13-under-par 203 for the first three rounds, had played two holes in even figures when the action was stopped.

Player, starting the day tied with Jack Nicklaus at 204, had completed four holes in 2-under-par. Nicklaus, playing with Palmer, parred the first two holes.

Next behind golf's Big Three at the 54-hole mark came Don January and Gardner Dickenson at 205. Jay Hebert and Johnny Pott at 206 and Tony Lema and Rex Baxter Jr. at 208.

Rail Unions Ask 'Summit' Meeting

CLEVELAND (AP)—The heads of five railroad labor unions have suggested a "summit conference" approach to the 3-year-old dispute over management plans for a streamlining operation that would slash more than 40,000 workers from their payrolls.

The labor leaders hinted also in letters to management representatives that failure to settle the dispute, which threatens to tie up virtually all rail traffic in the nation, could result in congressional intervention.

The carrier representatives broke off talks last June and initiated plans to put their work rules changes into effect. The carriers are maintaining a "wall of silence," the union leaders charged.

The unions represent some 200,000 on-train workers. They contend that the work rules changes, which were recommended a year ago by a presidential commission, would eliminate 80,000 jobs.

Fayette Judge Named Aids For Liquor Chief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—John Case, 54, a Fayette County Common Pleas Court judge from 1953 until last month, has been named administrative assistant to State Liquor Director Donald D. Cook.

Case, of Washington Court House, succeeds Edward Wise of Canton and will handle legal work. He is a graduate of Denison and Ohio State universities.

Tavern Hearing Set

NEW WATERFORD — The State Board of Liquor Control at Columbus has scheduled a hearing Thursday for Jesse J. Mercure, operator of the Wagon Wheel Tavern, on charges of being delinquent in state sales tax assessments. It is one of 56 cases scheduled to be heard during the week.

Rain Strikes In California

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Southern California went more than 300 days without a real storm. Then, with thunder, lightning, torrents of rain and snow in the mountains, it got one which:

Caused five traffic deaths Sunday on rain-slick roads and freeways.

Brought up to 8 inches of rain in suburban foothills.

Flooded hundreds of intersections and temporarily blocked many major arteries.

Sent angry seas surging against the beaches. At Venice the sea devoured the 180-foot-wide strand and undermined a parking lot beyond. "The beach is gone," a lifeguard dispatcher said.

In Glendale a wire-mesh check dam failed in a steep canyon and a tide of mud and debris spilled across streets and lawns. Police said 50 cars were trapped in the mud.

Water ran knee-deep in scores of homes in the low-lying southern part of Los Angeles, and sheriff's deputies used boats to evacuate many. The Red Cross put a number of the families in hotels.

Snow and rain covered broad sections in the eastern half of the nation and in some other western areas.

Another surge of arctic air moved southward through the central part of the country. Temperatures dropped to near zero in parts of the northern Plains and the eastern slopes of the northern Rockies. Freezing weather advanced into northern Texas.

Light snow continued over most areas from the upper Mississippi Valley eastward through the Great Lakes region and most of Pennsylvania and southward into northern sections of the Ohio Valley.

More rain splashed Tennessee, Mississippi and northwestern Alabama, while thunderstorms rumbled across northwest Florida. Rain changed to snow in parts of northern Arkansas and northwestern Tennessee with the arrival of colder air.

Lisbon Downs Clippers To Tie For Lead

Blue Devils Make It 2 Straight Over Rival

COLUMBIANA — The mixed up Tri-County League was all tied up today after Lisbon posted a 44-34 surprise before a packed house here Saturday night.

The victory was the second over Columbiana and puts the two teams in a deadlock for first place.

On Friday, Columbiana could have just about sowed up the title but lost to Minerva while Lisbon was losing to Poland. The Clippers and Blue Devils now hold 9-3 league marks.

Saturday's contest was pretty much decided in the second quarter when Lisbon scored 15 points while Columbiana could only come up with two markers.

The Clippers broke on top 10-8 but Coach Gary Pike's team came racing back to take a 23-12 margin at halftime. The third quarter still showed Lisbon in front 31-23.

Dave Rose with 13 points and Craig Pannier's 10 markers led the way for Lisbon. Jim Ward and Rick Perrin shared the honors for Columbiana with 11 each.

The first meeting between the two schools at Lisbon went to the Blue Devils, 55-44.

Lisbon will finish its Tri-County schedule at East Palestine Friday then meet Sebring at home Saturday.

Columbiana goes to Poland Friday then plays host to Leetonia Saturday.

POLAND — Poland put on a second half spurt that knocked East Palestine out of contention and led to a 63-47 victory here Saturday night.

Poland held a 24-21 halftime lead and increased it to 43-35 at the third quarter pole. The loss leaves East Palestine with a 5-11 mark.

In defeat, Dave Watt took scoring honors with 22 points while Poland showed more balance with Bob Lindberg, Jim Allen and Gary Walter all collecting 12 points.

The East Palestine reserves won, 41-39.

Cincinnati Eyes All-Time College Win Streak Of 60

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Two-time national champion Cincinnati, already virtually assured of winning the Missouri Valley Conference Championship and the ticket to the NCAA tournament that goes with the title, is beginning to look ahead to its long, long range goal—the longest winning streak ever by a college team.

The Bearcats, boasting a 37-game winning streak—19 this season—after edging Bradley 65-61 Saturday night, have their eye on San Francisco's all-time string of 60 straight made in 1955-56.

Right now, Cincinnati is tied with North Carolina and Texas for the No. 3 spot. Seton Hall, from 1939 to 1941, and Long Island University, from 1935 to 1937, share the runner-up spot with 39 each.

If Ed Jucker's club continues at its present pace, it could hit the 60 mark just about this time next season.

But there are pitfalls all along the way. This Saturday's game at Wichita is one of them. For one thing, the Shockers never have been any pushover. They whipped the Bearcats early last season, 52-51, just before the current Cincinnati streak got under way. Further, they are 11-1 on their home court this year.

St. Louis, currently in second place with a 5-2 conference record against the Bearcats' 8-0, turned back Wichita 68-61 Saturday night and now has the inside track for a bid to the National Invitation Tournament in New York which usually goes to the runner-up.

Here is how the other major conferences shape up as the season heads into the home stretch:

Big Ten—Illinois, No. 4 in the weekly Associated Press poll on a 14-2 record, 6-0 in the league, crushed Michigan State Saturday 91-86 and appears headed for its first title in 11 years. Defending champion Ohio State and Minnesota both are 5-2. The Buckeyes defeated Wisconsin 94-70 and the Gophers stopped Purdue 80-73 Saturday.

Southeastern Conference — Defending co-champion Mississippi State is 7-1 in the league and 16-4 over-all after getting past Tennessee, 63-59. Auburn still is hanging on at 6-2 and 14-2. Auburn barely beat Georgia 70-67 in overtime Saturday night. Georgia Tech lost two in a row and now is tied for third with Kentucky at 6-3. Louisiana State shocked the Engineers 56-54 Saturday.

Atlantic Coast Conference—Duke, 10-0 in the league, 17-2 over-all and third-ranked behind Cincinnati and Loyola of Chicago, can clinch the regular-season championship with victories over Virginia Wednesday and Wake Forest Saturday. That would give the Blue Devils the No. 1 seeding in the conference tournament starting Feb. 28 in Raleigh. They just did get past North Carolina State Saturday, 56-55.

Southwest Conference — Texas clobbered its No. 1 rival, Southern Methodist 77-62, Saturday to run its conference record to 7-0. Rice now is in second place at 5-2.

Southern Conference — William and Mary upset West Virginia 75-72 Saturday. That gave the Mountaineers a 9-2 record in the league —which is somewhat of a moral victory for the rest of the teams. Rarely does West Virginia lose more than one game in the loop. The Mountaineers still seem assured of entering the conference tournament opening Feb. 28 in Richmond as the top seed.

Big Eight—Colorado swept past Kansas 62-52 Saturday night to run its league record to 6-1. But both Oklahoma State, which broke Iowa State's seven-game winning streak 54-50, and Kansas State, a 100-69 winner over Oklahoma, are hanging on at 5-2. Colorado still must play Oklahoma State and Kansas State, so things are far from settled.

Big Six—Washington, which defeated California for the second straight night Saturday 65-58 leads the pack by a half-game. Second place Stanford polished off UCLA 86-78.

Western Athletic Conference — Both Arizona State University and Brigham Young show identical 4-1 league records. They meet Saturday for the title. A-State defeated the Cougars earlier in the season 89-84.

Ivy League—Cornell is the surprise leader with a 5-2 league record compared to 5-3 each for the favorites, Princeton and Penn. The Big Red hammered Dartmouth 75-62 for its seventh in a row over-all Saturday.

Phoenix Open Continues Today As Palmer Leads

By CARL BELL

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Arnold Palmer carried a one-stroke lead into the weather-delayed final round of the Phoenix Open Golf Tournament today.

Tournament officials decided this morning that the course had recovered sufficiently from a rain and hail storm which washed out play Sunday and that the firing for $35,000 in prize money could be resumed.

The wind-up was scheduled Sunday but a storm, striking 10 minutes after the sponsors' $7,000 rain insurance expired, forced the first postponement in the tournament's 28-year history.

A fan died of a heart attack after running to the clubhouse to escape the driving rain and hail.

Palmer, with a 13-under-par 203 for the first three rounds, had played two holes in even figures when the action was stopped.

Player, starting the day tied with Jack Nicklaus at 204, had completed four holes in 2-under-par. Nicklaus, playing with Palmer, parred the first two holes.

Next behind golf's Big Three at the 54-hole mark came Don January and Gardner Dickenson at 205. Jay Hebert and Johnny Pott at 206 and Tony Lema and Rex Baxter Jr. at 208.

Rail Unions Ask 'Summit' Meeting

CLEVELAND (AP)—The heads of five railroad labor unions have suggested a "summit conference" approach to the 3-year-old dispute over management plans for a streamlining operation that would slash more than 40,000 workers from their payrolls.

The labor leaders hinted also in letters to management representatives that failure to settle the dispute, which threatens to tie up virtually all rail traffic in the nation, could result in congressional intervention.

The carrier representatives broke off talks last June and initiated plans to put their work rules changes into effect. The carriers are maintaining a "wall of silence" the union leaders charged.

The unions represent some 200,000 railroad workers. They contend that the work rules changes, which were recommended a year ago by a presidential commission, would eliminate 80,000 jobs.

Fayette Judge Named Aids For Liquor Chief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—John Case, 54, a Fayette County Common Pleas Court judge from 1953 until last month, has been named administrative assistant to State Liquor Director Donald D. Cook.

Case, of Washington Court House, succeeds Edward Wise of Canton and will handle legal work. He is a graduate of Denison and Ohio State universities.

Tavern Hearing Set

NEW WATERFORD — The State Board of Liquor Control at Columbus has scheduled a hearing Thursday for Jesse J. Mercure, operator of the Wagon Wheel Tavern, on charges of being delinquent in state sales tax assessments. It is one of 56 cases scheduled to be heard during the week.

Rain Strikes In California

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Southern California went more than 300 days without a real storm. Then, with thunder, lightning, torrents of rain and snow in the mountains, it got one which:

Caused five traffic deaths Sunday on rain-slick roads and freeways.

Brought up to 8 inches of rain in suburban foothills.

Flooded hundreds of intersections and temporarily blocked many major arteries.

Sent angry seas surging against the beaches. At Venice the sea devoured the 180-foot-wide strand and undermined a parking lot beyond. "The beach is gone," a lifeguard dispatcher said.

In Glendale a wire-mesh check dam failed in a steep canyon and a tide of mud and debris spilled across streets and lawns. Police said 50 cars were trapped in the mud.

Water ran knee-deep in scores of homes in the low-lying southern part of Los Angeles, and sheriff's deputies used boats to evacuate many. The Red Cross put a number of the families in hotels.

Snow and rain covered broad sections in the eastern half of the nation and in some other western areas.

Another surge of arctic air moved southward through the central part of the country. Temperatures dropped to near zero in parts of the northern Plains and the eastern slopes of the northern Rockies. Freezing weather advanced into northern Texas.

Light snow continued over most areas from the upper Mississippi Valley eastward through the Great Lakes region and most of Pennsylvania and southward into northern sections of the Ohio Valley.

More rain splashed Tennessee, Mississippi and northwestern Alabama, while thunderstorms rumbled across northwest Florida. Rain changed to snow in parts of northern Arkansas and northwestern Tennessee with the arrival of colder air.

Europe Faces Decision

In the long shadow cast by Charles de Gaulle, what is the outlook for Europe and its relations with the United States? William L. Ryan has been seeking the answer to this question in interviews with officials in Germany, France, Belgium and Britain. This is the first of four articles looking closely at the Common Market, NATO, the ideal of European unity — and what they can mean for Americans.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

LONDON (AP)—For a dozen years Europe has tried to run away from her past, but it pursues her and haunts her.

Now she has reached an hour of decision. One man—Charles de Gaulle of France—has pushed Free Europe to a fork in the highway of world history.

She has two conflicting choices.

She can follow the road of every nation for itself, or she can try to surmount obstacles and continue pressing toward a distant goal of blending national self-interest with unity for the common welfare.

Within these broad alternatives are many possibilities which Europe eyes with mixed feelings of hope, dread and anger.

At stake are the future of President Kennedy's concept of an Atlantic partnership of free nations, the outlook for the North Atlantic alliance, the ideal of European union, the fate of the Common Market—and perhaps the whole course of the cold war.

Men who toiled patiently for years to launch the Common Market viewed it as the predecessor of a Europe politically and economically integrated.

It was an attempt to drag Europe away from old habits, from the time when nations pursued only their own narrow interests and frequently acted like bickering harridans ready to make things difficult for one another at the drop of a stitch.

Men who opposed the whole unity concept—they include both highly vocal and highly influential figures in many countries—picture themselves as vastly relieved by De Gaulle's thumbs-down on British membership in the market.

They are relieved, they say, because they believe British success at the Brussels meeting of foreign ministers last month would have spelled U.S. domination of Western Europe.

Six nations make up the Common Market: France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. Their Brussels meeting was the beginning of a complex Atlantic crisis.

When De Gaulle vetoed Britain's entry he dealt a heavy blow to the morale of advocates of European unity. They denounced his decision as monstrous, as a danger to the whole Western world. But the results of the explosion have not yet crystallized.

There is vast uncertainty in the West about the future. The question plaguing Europe and the United States: What happens next?

The worst, in the view of leaders of the five nations which opposed France at Brussels, will be that the Common Market will come apart, its members flying into one orbit or another.

That would mean the resplintering of Europe. Already there is a danger of slow paralysis in the Common Market's operations because the French action is delaying or canceling decision-making meetings.

The five members who sided with Britain against De Gaulle can try to outflank French resistance by pushing on in cooperation with the British at least toward the goal of political collaboration.

A framework and a forum for this exist in the Western European Union made up of the Common Market six and Britain. Its original purpose was to stand watch over German rearmament. France has no veto power in WEU. She could not stop consultation, though she might try to obstruct it.

The five can stay together with France and try to persuade the French to ease their opposition to Britain. This is being tried, but chances of De Gaulle's changing his mind seem slim.

The five can content themselves with staying together with France in a six-nation community. They could let Britain go her own way with the "outer seven" nations of EFTA—the European Free Trade Association. This would split Europe into two separate trading areas. A Common Market spokesman says it would confine the six to a "small jail" of inner Europe, subject to eventual domination by France and out of reach of U.S. influence.

The five could try to retaliate against France, compounding the damage. The Common Market, a going concern for some time, is too interdependent to permit action against one big, strong member. That could boomerang and hurt all of them.

For the moment, the market may have reached a dead end, unable to do anything either positive or negative to resolve its dilemmas.

Prices For Most Meat Cuts About Equal With Year Ago

Prices for most meat cuts, with a few exceptions, are at the levels of a year ago, according to Ed Watkins, market information specialist with the Agriculture Extension Service at Canfield.

Exceptions are lamb and some cuts of pork. Lamb remains at levels about eight per cent ahead of the same time in 1962, while shoulder cuts of pork are about 10 per cent less, Watkins said.

Looking ahead, these meat prices are expected to show little change for the next few weeks. Slightly larger amounts of both beef and pork are coming to market. This is balanced by a continuing strong demand.

Fresh fruit supplies show very little change this week. Smaller size grapefruit are priced at about 10 cents each, with larger sizes up to twice that figure.

Latest crop estimates on citrus fruit indicate 15 to 20 per cent less than last winter. Apples continue as the fruit in best supply. General purpose varieties, Rome, McIntosh, Jonathan are quite economical with higher prices on large size West Coast Red and Golden Delicious for eating fresh.

Emperor grapes still are priced in the 15-19 cent range, with green Calmerias and Almerias considerably higher.

D'Anjou pears are steady in price this week averaging 8 to 10 cents a piece in most locations. The fruit picture is rounded out with banana prices back to normal. Limited selection of avocados frmo Florida, pineapples from Mexico and Hawaii, nectarines and plums from Chilli keep prices on these fruits up.

Good supplies of potatoes, large size onions, sweet potatoes and carrots keep prices on these commodities in the reasonable price range. Head lettuce is a little lower in price but a lot of variation in quality is evident.

Cabbage and cucumbers are a little lower in price too, but still considerably above levels of a year ago.

Canned fruit and vegetables can be a source of economically priced food during this period of the year. Fruit in best supply are fruit cocktail, peaches, pears, tart cherries and applesauce.

Canned vegetables in good supply and available at reasonable prices include corn, peas, spinach, lima beans and mixed vegetables.

Little price change is in prospect either up or down on prices of milk and other dairy products. With consumption showing little tendency to change and production up about the same amount as numbers of people, this class of foods promises to remain in adequate supply.

Europe Faces Decision

In the long shadow cast by Charles de Gaulle, what is the outlook for Europe and its relations with the United States? William L. Ryan has been seeking the answer to this question in interviews with officials in Germany, France, Belgium and Britain. This is the first of four articles looking closely at the Common Market, NATO, the ideal of European unity — and what they can mean for Americans.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

LONDON (AP)—For a dozen years Europe has tried to run away from her past, but it pursues her and haunts her.

Now she has reached an hour of decision. One man—Charles de Gaulle of France—has pushed Free Europe to a fork in the highway of world history.

She has two conflicting choices. She can follow the road of every nation for itself, or she can try to surmount obstacles and continue pressing toward a distant goal of blending national self-interest with unity for the common welfare.

Within these broad alternatives are many possibilities which Europe eyes with mixed feelings of hope, dread and anger.

At stake are the future of President Kennedy's concept of an Atlantic partnership of free nations, the outlook for the North Atlantic alliance, the ideal of European union, the fate of the Common Market—and perhaps the whole course of the cold war.

Men who toiled patiently for years to launch the Common Market viewed it as the predecessor of a Europe politically and economically integrated.

It was an attempt to drag Europe away from old habits, from the time when nations pursued only their own narrow interests and frequently acted like bickering harridans ready to make things difficult for one another at the drop of a stitch.

Men who opposed the whole unity concept—they include both highly vocal and highly influential figures in many countries—picture themselves as vastly relieved by De Gaulle's thumbs-down on British membership in the market.

They are relieved, they say, because they believe British success at the Brussels meeting of foreign ministers last month would have spelled U.S. domination of Western Europe.

Six nations make up the Common Market: France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. Their Brussels meeting was the beginning of a complex Atlantic crisis.

When De Gaulle vetoed Britain's entry he dealt a heavy blow to the morale of advocates of European unity. They denounced his decision as monstrous, as a danger to the whole Western world. But the results of the explosion have not yet crystallized.

There is vast uncertainty in the West about the future. The question plaguing Europe and the United States: What happens next?

The worst, in the view of leaders of the five nations which opposed France at Brussels, will be that the Common Market will come apart, its members flying into one orbit or another.

That would mean the resplintering of Europe. Already there is a danger of slow paralysis in the Common Market's operations because the French action is delaying or canceling decision-making meetings.

The five members who sided with Britain against De Gaulle can try to outflank French resistance by pushing on in cooperation with the British at least toward the goal of political collaboration.

A framework and a forum for this exist in the Western European Union made up of the Common Market six and Britain. Its original purpose was to stand watch over German rearmament. France has no veto power in WEU. She could not stop consultation, though she might try to obstruct it.

The five can stay together with France and try to persuade the French to ease their opposition to Britain. This is being tried, but chances of De Gaulle's changing his mind seem slim.

The five can content themselves with staying together with France in a six-nation community. They could let Britain go her own way with the "outer seven" nations of EFTA—the European Free Trade Association. This would split Europe into two separate trading areas. A Common Market spokesman says it would confine the six to a "small jail" of inner Europe, subject to eventual domination by France and out of reach of U.S. influence.

The five could try to retaliate against France, compounding the damage. The Common Market, a going concern for some time, is too interdependent to permit action against one big, strong member. That could boomerang and hurt all of them.

For the moment, the market may have reached a dead end, unable to do anything either positive or negative to resolve its dilemmas.

Prices For Most Meat Cuts About Equal With Year Ago

Prices for most meat cuts, with a few exceptions, are at the levels of a year ago, according to Ed Watkins, market information specialist with the Agriculture Extension Service at Canfield.

Exceptions are lamb and some cuts of pork. Lamb remains at levels about eight per cent ahead of the same time in 1962, while shoulder cuts of pork are about 10 per cent less, Watkins said.

Looking ahead, these meat prices are expected to show little change for the next few weeks. Slightly larger amounts of both beef and pork are coming to market. This is balanced by a continuing strong demand.

Fresh fruit supplies show very little change this week. Smaller size grapefruit are priced at about 10 cents each, with larger sizes up to twice that figure.

Latest crop estimates on citrus fruit indicate 15 to 20 per cent less than last winter. Apples continue as the fruit in best supply. General purpose varieties, Rome, McIntosh, Jonathan are quite economical with higher prices on large size West Coast Red and Golden Delicious for eating fresh.

Emperor grapes still are priced in the 15-19 cent range, with green Calmerias and Almerias considerably higher.

D'Anjou pears are steady in price this week averaging 8 to 10 cents a piece in most locations. The fruit picture is rounded out with banana prices back to normal. Limited selection of avocados frmo Florida, pineapples from Mexico and Hawaii, nectarines and plums from Chili keep prices on these fruits up.

Good supplies of potatoes, large size onions, sweet potatoes and carrots keep prices on these commodities in the reasonable price range. Head lettuce is a little lower in price but a lot of variation in quality is evident.

Cabbage and cucumbers are a little lower in price too, but still considerably above levels of a year ago.

Canned fruit and vegetables can be a source of economically priced food during this period of the year. Fruit in best supply are fruit cocktail, peaches, pears, tart cherries and applesauce.

Canned vegetables in good supply and available at reasonable prices include corn, peas, spinach, lima beans and mixed vegetables.

Little price change is in prospect either up or down on prices of milk and other dairy products. With consumption showing little tendency to change and production up about the same amount as numbers of people, this class of foods promises to remain in adequate supply.

Junior Editors Quiz on CAMERAS

QUESTION: How do cameras work?

ANSWER. The camera principle is shown in (1), in which the near side of the camera box has been cut away. Light rays (A) are gathered by the lens and focused sharply on the sensitive film inside box (B). Notice that the image is reversed as it falls upon the film. The exposure is made by pressing a button (C) which opens the shutter for the brief time it takes to make the picture. With the shutter closed, a new section of film is rolled into place by turning the knob (D).

True photographs were made as early as 1826 but old fashioned cameras were clumsy affairs (2) with their "wet plates" which had to be prepared in a darkroom before using. When Eastman invented roll film and brought out the first Kodak, (3) modern photography became possible. Futher developments came rapidly. One of the best liked is the miniature camera (4) with its inexpensive film rolls which take a large number of pictures, convenient for making color slides. The Polaroid Land Camera (5) using a new type of film, delivers a finished print in 10 seconds. Extremely popular, also, are cameras with flash bulb attachments which enable us to take pictures in any light.

FOR YOU TO DO: Most of us take pictures, but how many preserve the photographs we have taken? We suggest you go over your old snapshots, pick out interesting ones and paste them in an album. Be sure to add names, places and dates.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I remove lipstick stains from materials?

A. If the stains are fresh, carbon tetrachloride is often enough to remove them. Otherwise, lubricate the stain well with white mineral oil or petroleum jelly, and flush with carbon tetrachloride.

Q. How can I improvise some shoe polish when I'm out of the real thing?

A. Try using some of your paste floor wax, which is neutral in color and can be used on either dark or light shoes.

Q. How can I remove insects from vegetables?

A. When washing vegetables, put a little vinegar or a pinch of borax in the water. This will bring the live insects to the surface of the water almost immediately.

Q. How can I remove stains from pie dishes?

A. Oven-browned stains on these dishes can be easily removed by soaking in a strong solution of borax and water.
